Thousands Along New Tracks, Connecting East and West Coasts, Greet "President's Special."

S. DAVIES WARFIELD TELLS ACHIEVEMENT

Governor Martin, of Florida, Welcomes 500 Distinguished Guests Upon Four Special Trains.

Avon Park, Fla., January 25.—(Special.)—The most important event in the transportation history of Florida since the building of the first railroad connecting the southernmost part of the peninsula with the northern portion of the state took place today on the occasion of the opening of the Seaboard Air Line railway's new cross-state line—Florida Western & Northern railroad—connecting the two coasts and both coasts with points east and west.

It remained for S. Davies Warfield, president of the Seaboard Air Line railway, to conceive and put into rapid execution plans that now bind together by rails of steel the two Florida coasts and thence by connections both coasts with the outer world. The first trains in four sections, carrying nearly 500 guests from nearly every section of the country and of Florida, passed over the new line yesterday.

Brings Important Men.
As the pioneer in bringing the east and west coasts together by a short line and establishing the only through line south of Richmond from eastern and western points to the east coast of Florida, Mr. Warfield was also the pioneer in bringing into Florida today and through the south the greatest number of important men from all sections of the country, representative of various fields of activity ever attempted or accomplished.

Prominent men of finance, of industry, of the press and of the great hotels of New York, Florida and of the country from 75 cities and 20 states did honor to the man who conceived a great pioneer and public railroad work which carries into effect his plans for the state of Florida.

The "Orange Blossom Special," also designated "President's Special," in honor of Mr. Warfield, president of the Seaboard, met a continuous, unbroken ovation from the time the first section passed from the Seaboard's main line to the rails of the new line at Coleman. At Coleman, Center Hill, Auburndale, Polk City, Winter Haven, Florence, Lake Wales, throughout the highlands territory—Mountain Lake Park, Highland park, Babson park—Avon park to Sebring, Basseger, Okeechobee and surrounding territory to West Palm Beach, thousands of people from cities, towns and surrounding territory met the train even in the early hours of the morning, when many of the occupants of the cars were asleep.

In recognition of what the new Seaboard extension means to Florida, at many places committees of citizens met the train. The citizens of Center Hill, Auburndale, and Polk City were on hand. At Winter Haven, a 30-minute stop was made and a citizens' committee of 25 carried the party by automobiles to Florence Villa and through Winter Haven. A committee of young ladies arrayed in orange-colored ribbons presented baskets of orange blossoms, their chairman breaking a bottle of the essence of orange blossom on the railing. # ONTARIO TWINS KILLED BY GAS WHILE BATHING

St. Catharines, Ont., January 25.—The 10-year-old twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Everett, of Thorold, were asphyxiated by illuminating gas fumes while taking a bath at their home Saturday night. It was reported here today. It is thought the boys turned on the gas heater but forgot to light it.

Red Ridinghood Paper Dolls for All Little Folks

"I'll never stop to talk to a wolf again," declares little Red Ridinghood, who had a narrow escape recently from one of the boldest wolves of the forest.
Miss Ridinghood's thrilling adventure—perhaps you've heard of it before—is to be told in The Constitution in a new way for the benefit of all little boys and girls. Miss Ridinghood, the wolf, the grandmother, and the hunter will all appear as cut-out characters. Costumes for each will be given. Every child who gets The Constitution can have a complete set of Red Ridinghood paper dolls.
Turn to the woman's page today.

SENATE TANGLE MAY CAUSE HOUSE TO BECOME IDLE

Representatives Might Have Rest Unless Cross Bill Puzzles in Upper House Are Solved.

Washington, January 25.—With the senate in a rather unexpected tangle over the postal pay and rate increase bill, the Isle of Pines' treaty and the supreme court nomination of Attorney General Stone, the house is beginning to slow up its work in order not to find time hanging on its hands. Having disposed of the most important of the annual supply bills, the house now is giving only leisurely consideration to the others. Even so, leaders expect to send two more to the senate this week, the budgets for the independent offices and for the state, justice, commerce and labor departments.

Thus far the senate has kept pace with the house on the appropriation bills and it finds itself in a tangle on other matters largely through an effort to consider three things at once. The Isle of Pines was its unfinished business; then it gave the postal bill a special order status, and finally got into a jam on the Stone nomination.

No Relief In Sight.
None of the leaders will venture an opinion as to when any of these matters will be disposed of, but despite this, the senate has by a formal vote, made the Bureau bill for retirement pay for disabled emergency world war veterans the unfinished business a week from tomorrow.

President Coolidge is exerting some influence with respect to action on both the Isle of Pines treaty and the world court resolution, but even administration senators assert that there appears little prospect for action on either before March 4. Chairman Borah, of the foreign relations committee, has announced that the convention with Cuba is to be made the subject of considerable more debate, and Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, has discovered that the original copy of the treaty is lost and has demanded an inquiry regarding this phase of the matter.

Add New Legislation.
While the senate is taking a way out of the present situation, its committee continues to add new legislation to its already over-crowded calendar. This includes the measure for relief for the railroads from present high interest rates on government loans, and also the bill for purchase of the Cape Cod canal.
The postal bill will have right-of-way tomorrow, but there will be renewed efforts to have stricken from it the section calling for increased postal rates to take care of advances in the salaries of postal employees. The senate last week refused to strike this out on a point of order.

The Muscle Shoals question will bob up again this week, this time to bring in a rule Tuesday to have the Underwood leasing bill sent to conference instead of referring it to the military committee.

NINE ARE INJURED AS TRAIN STRIKES BATTERED SWITCH

Tulsa, Okla., January 25.—Nine persons were injured, three so seriously they may not recover, when a St. Louis-San Francisco passenger train ran into a battered switch at Tulsa, Oklahoma, today. Four cars turned over.

According to the official report of the accident, the switch on the main line had been tampered with and the locomotive struck it. An investigation is under way.

Curse of Musty Tomb Halts King Tut Farce in London

London, January 25.—Fearing the release of a curse from the murky depths of King Tut-ankh-Amen's tomb in Egypt, producers of the Punch Bowl Revue have abandoned their plans to stage a sensational skit about Queen Nefertiti, Tut's mother-in-law. Perhaps it is only superstition that connects the sudden illness and death of the late Earl of Carnarvon with his lordship's disturbance of Tut-ankh-Amen's tomb. It was Carnarvon who supplied the funds for the discovery of the tomb, and who died from the bite of an Egyptian insect.
The ill health of Howard Carter, who actually discovered the tomb, may be only a coincidence. His health failed while he was in Egypt. There were many lesser occurrences ascribed to a "curse" by the superstitious.
The Punch Bowl producers thought little of the superstition when they obtained a song about Queen Nefertiti, whose bust lies in the British Museum. They built a sketch about the song and put it into rehearsal.

'LET ALONE' POLICY WILL BE PURSUED AFTER MARCH 4TH

People Weary of Politics, Want Peace at Home and Abroad, and Taxes Lowered, President Says.

GOVERNMENT TO AVOID ANY NEW EXPERIMENTS

Reaction Against Strenuousness of Roosevelt and Moral Fervor of Wilson Seen by Coolidge.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, January 25.—During the early days of his new term, President Coolidge will be guided by the thought that what the American people want most of all from Washington is to be let alone. This is the appraisal of sentiment made by most of the regular republican leaders at this time.

They believe that the country is weary of politics and desires tranquility at home and peace abroad, a minimum of federal activity, ruthless economy so that taxes may be lowered, and an avoidance of government experiments.

Cool to Labor Amendment.
One of the evidences pointed to in supporting this estimate of the public temper is the coolness toward the child labor amendment to the constitution, now before the states for ratification.

Of nine states which have agreed, two have ratified. The legislatures of the other seven have rejected it. Massachusetts also rejected it in a popular referendum which, though not binding on the legislature, doubtless will lead to defeat of the amendment there. Even Kansas—which has always been regarded as one of the states most devoted to humanitarian legislation—has turned its back on the proposal.

Many reasons are involved. In some localities, the farmer vote has been mobilized against the measure on the ground that congress might prohibit children working on the farm—a fear that seems groundless to those who know how congress trembles at the slightest frown from the wheat belt. Various other factors have been involved in other sections. But underlying everything there seems to be a disinclination to tinker with the constitution.

States' Rights Involved.
Disappointment with the functioning of the Eighteenth amendment may have something to do with the reluctance to take on another one. Then there is the argument that states' rights are invaded, which is advanced by many who favor prohibition of child labor, but want it done locally, rather than by federal action.

Another symptom of the desire for political quietude was the intolerant attitude of many toward the La Follette movement. One large factor in this opposition was the vague feeling that there was a disturber who would cause all sorts of commotion and break the Sabbath quiet which was desired politically.

The same temper is being displayed now toward the "irreconcilable" senators who are scrutinizing the Paris agreement. They attempt to check up on this agreement and see that nothing is done to the disadvantage of the United States.

Cop Refuses To Take Away Tin Garages Noted Prophet Is Dead at 80

Resists Combined Diplomacy of Three Governments in Unique Situation.

Life Ambition Disappointed at Being Unable To See Eclipse Saturday.

Hackensack, N. J., January 25.—

Andrew Jackson de Voe, 80, nationally known amateur weather prophet, died at his home of heart disease today, disappointed because of failure to realize one of his life's greatest ambitions. For years he had been looking forward to viewing the eclipse of the sun, but when the great solar spectacle came yesterday, he was too ill to behold it.
For more than a quarter of a century, de Voe had earned several thousand dollars a year by providing copyrighted forecasts to patent medicine companies issuing yearly almanacs. He also prepared weather predictions for farmers, cotton brokers and speculators who applied for his services.
De Voe is said to have won his first reputation by his prediction of the blizzard of 1888 that buried New York city deep in snow. He is reported to have foreseen that event by two weeks.

New Yorker Offers $1,000 For First Memorial Coin

1,000 NEW HALF DOLLARS ON WAY TO ATLANTA

Efforts were made Sunday night to communicate with officials of the association and Mr. Borglum, but they could not be reached over the phone.

Announcement was made Sunday that the first thousand coins of the new issue would arrive this week at the Federal Reserve bank here and would be turned over to the association. The issue of five million half-dollars was authorized by act of congress and approved by President Coolidge, March 17, 1924.

The association is now planning for sale and distribution of the coins over the United States and in this way expects to realize a large amount over their face value, which will be used in pushing work on the Stone Mountain memorial.

MRS. J. C. JOHNSON COOLIDGE STUDIES DIES AT HOSPITAL

G. C. Organ, 60-Year-Old Blacksmith, Held for Shooting Which Occurred on January 19.

Mrs. Bertha Mae Johnson, wife of J. C. Johnson, of 156 Central avenue, who was shot down on the night of January 19, at the corner of Trinity avenue and South Pryor street, died at Grady hospital late Sunday night. G. C. Organ, a 60-year-old blacksmith, of a West Mitchell street address, is being held in connection with the shooting.

Mrs. Johnson was on her way to a theater at the time. She claimed that she recognized Organ, who ever since his arrest has denied any part in the affair, and has claimed that he was in another part of the city when the shooting occurred.

She told police that Organ was infuriated with her and she attributed the attack to the fact that she had repudiated his advances. Organ claimed that she was only a casual acquaintance.
Mrs. Johnson was wounded once through the chest and once through the back. Her little girl was with her at the time. The charge against Organ will now be changed to murder, police stated Sunday night.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

PRICELESS PALL UPON TUT'S TOMB VIRTUALLY RUINED

Luxor, Egypt, January 25.—A determined vandal, an ignorant servant, or, perhaps, one of the gentile spirits that are reputed to hover about the remains of mummified Egyptian kings, provided a shock for Howard Carter when he entered King Tut-ankh-Amen's tomb Sunday.

As Carter stepped into the interior of the tomb, when it was opened Sunday, he gasped, and returning, announced that he had found the priceless pall that formerly covered Tut-ankh-Amen's sarcophagus lying on the floor of the tomb, crumpled and practically ruined.

The beautiful gold embroidery was scarcely recognizable. Everything else in the tomb was intact.
Carter Goes into Rage.
London, January 25.—Howard Carter, blaming practical destruction of the pall covering King Tut-ankh-Amen's tomb on the Egyptian government, flew into a rage when he discovered the pall's condition, according to a Luxor dispatch to the Daily Mail.

Look what your people have done," he cried, turning to the Egyptian undersecretary of works who accompanied him into the tomb.
"And it's your pall, not mine! A hundred pounds has been wasted in trying to preserve this and now see what is left of it!"

New Effort To Scale Everest Planned by British in 1926

CRAGSMEN TO WEAR PSYCHO-ANALYSIS ARMOR

BY CHARLES M. MCANN.

London, January 25.—Protected against the brain-distorting fantasies of Tibetan mountain devils by an armor of psycho-analysis, British cragsmen are preparing for a new assault on the hitherto impenetrable slopes of Mount Everest.
The Royal Geographical society has announced that it will sponsor another sortie against the virgin of the Himalayas in 1926. All but two of the members of the last expedition have returned to England. The two who did not return are at the top of Everest, or near it, their bodies parched like unwrapped mummies by the frigid, arid air. They were last seen struggling upward through hurtling gusts of wind as they carried on ahead of their fellows, a few hundred yards from the goal. The others turned back. The two went on, perhaps to see with their last conscious glances the topmost peak of the world—29,002 feet above the level of the sea—

Darien Cut Off From Rest of World Except by Telegraph—Expedition Sails From Savannah.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Savannah, Ga., January 25.—In an effort to carry relief to flood sufferers in McIntosh and Long counties, the tug Jacob Paulsen, under command of Captain Frank Spencer, left Savannah tonight, hoping to make a landing at Pine Harbor, in McIntosh county, and make overland contact with flood sufferers reported at several points within a radius of probably 25 miles.

Aboard the vessel, besides Lieutenant S. S. Hamilton and four men from Fort Screven, was Miss Frances Kirkpatrick, executive secretary of the Red Cross at Savannah, and a newspaperman. The Red Cross appropriated $1,000 for flood sufferers today.

The tug, which has two launches in tow, will reach Pine Harbor or Darien by noon Monday. Small boats with Evinrude engines were also aboard.

Authority was wired to Colonel Raymond Shelden at Fort Screven to place at the disposal of civil authorities all supplies necessary to alleviate the suffering in the flooded district.

Five days' rations for 150 people and tents, coats, blankets and other equipment were brought from Fort Screven.

The first effort of the relief expedition is to reach 35 families in distress at Townsend, in McIntosh county, about 15 miles from Pine Harbor. Darien, which is within perhaps 15 miles of the colony of sufferers, is cut off from the rest of the world except by telegraph.

The Altamaha river at Darien was reported still rising tonight, while a message from Ludovick said there had been a slight recession at that point.

HAVANA SPECIAL REACHES JACKSONVILLE

The train was due Friday. The station master's office here reported that the Havana Special due tonight would be 12 hours late.

The floods in Georgia have virtually disrupted train service into and out of Florida. The Southern railroad tonight was reported to have the only open line into Jacksonville from the north, and the Seaboard Air Line, Atlantic Coast Line and other roads operating trains to and from Florida through Jacksonville were routing their trains over the Southern, with the time of arrivals and departures uncertain.

Seaboard trains out of Jacksonville are being routed over the Southern to Atlanta and over the Seaboard to Hamlet, N. C., due to a washout at the nomination of Stone back to the judiciary committee for further consideration, which would mean delay. Democrats claim they have enough votes, together with a few from republican ranks, to send the nomination back. They desire to withhold action until Stone appears before the committee to explain why an indictment is sought against Senator Wheeler, when a case is now pending against him in the courts of his own state.

COOLIDGE STUDIES COURSE ON STONE

Stone admitted Sunday that the case sought here is one of alleged conspiracy to defraud the government, much broader than the original indictment of Wheeler in Montana, which alleged that he had used his influence, after becoming senator, to secure oil and gas permits from the department of the interior here for a client in Montana.

New and Distinct Case.

The grand jury action here constitutes a new and distinct case, involving those cited as principals in the Montana case. Edwin S. Booth, formerly solicitor in the interior department, who appeared before the investigating committee which subsequently exonerated Wheeler, is expected to appear before the grand jury.

Stone felt, it is said, that the new evidence which has been brought to light should be presented to a grand jury, as it was along broader lines than the action now pending in Montana and should be presented here, as the indictments alleged are supposed to have occurred here, and the case, on the other hand, claim that Wheeler is being "persecuted," and Senator Borah joined them in protesting against bringing the case here, though arguing in executive session that the Stone nomination should be considered separately and apart from the Wheeler angle.

Judging from what has happened already behind closed doors at the senate, the continuation of the fight will be bitter. If the nomination is sent back to committee for further investigation, it may be delayed for considerable time. President Coolidge does not intend to withdraw it, and Stone indicated Sunday that he has no intention as yet of requesting that it be withdrawn.

Two democrats, at least, have another grudge against Stone. Hefflin of Alabama, and Overman of North Carolina, who have attacked the attorney general for his conduct in a case of that J. P. Morgan interest, and for which Stone was counsel, against Colonel James A. Owenby, of Colorado.

Owenby appeared before the committee against Stone. Senator Walsh of Montana, however, after careful examination of evidence, found nothing in this case to prevent Stone's appointment to the supreme court. Hefflin has a motion pending to move the argument on the Stone nomination into open executive session, which would make it public, but this is expected to be defeated, as this is contrary to usual custom.

Job. But slowly we were driven to the conclusion that the Tibetans believe that Everest is alive, are correct.

Mountain Resists Invaders.
"When we first saw the mountain, she was veiled in clouds. Then she peeped at us. Ever afterwards she put on a fair aspect when we were inactive in the camp, or, beaten, retreating our steps down her sides. When we built our camps preparatory to climbing further up the mountain, the most terrible storms suddenly occurred. It happened every single time."

"All Tibetans believe in a most exaggerated form of devil worship—that there are thousands of devils in every few feet of ground. If thousands of people believe that, it focuses their attention on this for thousands of years, it is, in my opinion, quite feasible that their imagination can materialize something of that nature."

"After all, nature is alive. We were in the most inaccessible and virgin parts of the world, where nature is strangest and most cruel. In future, I am convinced that members of the expedition must be trained against succumbing to this fatalism and conviction that the mountain never can be overcome."

Must Get Mental Grip.

"In future we must get a mental grip on the mountain—never turning back. Turning back encourages the mountain and pleases the demons." Mallory himself (G. H. Leigh Mallory) one of the two gallant climbers last seen struggling alone to the peak, was the most fatalistic of us. But several of us are quite convinced that Everest is alive.

"Geologists complain that rock is only rock and cannot be alive."

"Well—we have been there. That is all that I can say."

TWO YOUTHS SUE FOR ALIENATION OF MOTHER'S LOVE

Waco, Tex., January 25.—Charges that D. W. Ray, wealthy business man of Kerna, Texas, stole the affections of their mother, are contained in a suit on file here by C. J. Doerr, Jr., 14, and his brother, Victor, 12.

The two boys are asking $100,000 for the alleged loss of their mother's love.

The suit was filed through their father, C. J. Doerr, Sr., as their next friend, and alleges that Ray, as employer of the elder Doerr, paid regular visits to the Doerr home and there "peristed in paying attention to our mother and she was lost to us."

This is believed to be the first suit of this kind instituted by minors in the history of the state.

ing is being put over on the United States is being received with the same kind of enthusiasm that is showered on a stranger in the bleachers who roots against the home team.

Lloyd George, in commenting on the eclipse of liberalism and the tendency everywhere toward conservatism, observed recently that the world is war-weary and has stretched out on its side to rest. All it wants is quiet so that it may sleep and recover its wasted strength.

That, in the opinion of a good many politicians and political observers, is the disposition in the United States. President Coolidge is shaping his official course on that assumption. He is setting affairs in order for a placid, profitable voyage on which everyone will be relatively free and easy as he pleases so far as the government is concerned. Congress is about to quit, to be gone for nearly a year, and when it comes back, it will be pretty much under the domination of the president. There is a calm sea ahead.

The anti-Klan version is that Young and his companions thereupon went to the hotel to seek Thomas and "shoot it out."

The Klan account is that Young and the others were attacked as they passed. Young adherents asserted Forbes was shot from above, because the bullet penetrated his skull in a direction indicated by a wound which had been fired from an upper window.

Thomas' body was removed to one undertaking establishment and the bodies of the three others to another undertaking place. It was announced the inquest into the killings would be Tuesday, although Coroner McCowan indicated an investigation might be started tomorrow.

It was, indeed, a red letter day in the annals of Florida's progress. At Avon Park, a number of pretty girls met the train and presented him with a huge bouquet, signaling "Tonnage," the central piece of which was a stalk of celery 30 inches tall.

The first extensive occasion to the opening of the new line took place on the large green oval in front of the hotel, a stand having been erected facing the lake. "Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen: This day marks an important epoch in the history of our fair state. Today we assemble here to celebrate the opening of the new Seaboard Air Line system, and connecting the west and east of Florida."

"A governor of the state of Florida, and on behalf of her million population, I wish to publicly acknowledge to the residents of Florida and to the people of the building of this 200 miles of railway across our state, traversing as it does a section of country which has been a source of pride and sequency and as rich in picture as to be found anywhere in America."

Local Hotel Men Indorse Crusade by Constitution To Ban Concealed Weapons

Kiwanis Club of Americus To Join in Fight—Rome Man Fined Twice for Carrying Concealed Gun.

Fresh impetus was given to the sweeping campaign against the pistol launched recently by The Constitution, when it was announced Saturday that the Atlanta Hotel Men's association, at its last regular meeting, passed resolutions declaring the organization and all of its individual members on record as heartily endorsing and unqualifiedly approving The Constitution's "worthy campaign against the pistol menace."

Your efforts in bringing about needed legislation to correct an evil which has been responsible for the writing of so many sinister pages in our history will, we trust, be fruitful of the result you seek," the resolutions said in part.

Frank Maloney, secretary of the Atlanta Hotel Men's association, was directed to communicate to all concerned the action of the organization in condemning the pistol.

Americus Kiwanis in Line.

The Kiwanis club of Americus, Ga., also went on record Saturday against "the evil of pistol-toting."

Following many other state Kiwanis clubs, the Americus organization passed the following resolutions:

Whereas, it is the duty of every citizen to support the laws of the state, and to oppose any and every effort to weaken the same, and

SEVEN ARE ADRIFT IN PACIFIC OCEAN IN SCHOONER BOAT

Portland, Ore., January 25.—Seven members of the crew of the schooner Speedway, lost in storms off Cape Flattery, are adrift in the Pacific ocean in an open boat, according to reports reaching the federal telegraph marine station.

The steamer Manulani wireless Sunday that she had picked up a boatload of members of the wrecked schooner's crew who told of the plight of the rest of the Speedway's men.

Cow, Hog, Hen Plan Brings Much Money To Ashburn Farmers

Ashburn, Ga., January 24.—(Special.)—The cooperative hog sale held Tuesday in Ashburn proves beyond peradventure the money circulating power there is in the cow, hog and hen program, and that after the proceeds from tobacco, cotton and peanuts has so long passed through the farmers' hands until he forgets what it feels like.

Many Turner county farmers are paying up debts from the amounts received from hogs at the last sale that cotton could not reach.

From early in the morning until long after noon trails of two-horse wagons came in on all roads leading to Ashburn, loaded with hogs and to perfect the trio and assert the part the cow and chicken were also playing as money circulators, on the top of many wagons could be seen coops of chickens and large cans of cream.

When the last wagon of hogs was unloaded in the pens of the Ashburn stockyards it was found there were seven cars. A basis of 9.74 cents a pound was obtained.

The seven cars were bought through H. B. Ralls, Jr., of the Union Stock yards, Atlanta, so that evidently the aid given by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, the Credit Men's association, the clearing house and other civic bodies of Atlanta to the Georgia association that fosters the cow, hog and hen program, is coming back to them.

The $11,338.19 put in circulation in Turner county in one day from the sale of those seven cars of hogs exemplifies what can be done when the plan of the cow, hog and hen is followed.

FIVE FISHING SKIFFS THOUGHT LOST AT SEA

St. John's, N. F., January 25.—The five fishing skiffs, which with 30 fishermen, were swept to sea Friday night in a storm off Rose Blanche bay on the southwestern coast, had not been heard from tonight.

Wireless reports from the mail steamer Kyle, which turned from her course between North Sydney, N. S., and Port Aux Basques to comb the sea for the missing craft, said she found no trace of them. The coastal steamer Prospero has been directed to join the search.

The bodies of two men of the fleet were recovered, it was reported.

SKI CATCHES IN SNOW BOY'S NECK BROKEN

Manchester, N. H., January 25.—Raymond Roulier, 12, died of a broken neck today after one of his skis caught in the snow when he took off on the Goffs Falls ski jump, near here. He was dead when picked up.

TRIAL OF EDWARDS WILL BEGIN TODAY

Birmingham, Ala., January 25.—The trial of Dr. George T. Edwards, Fairfield physician, charged with slaying his wife on December 2, is scheduled to open in circuit court at Bessemer tomorrow. A total of 122 witnesses have been summoned, including 82 for the defense and 30 for the prosecution.

Dr. Edwards claims that his wife was slain by an intruder into his home, who also shot him in the hand when he awoke and offered resistance. Circumstances surrounding Mrs. Edwards' death led to his arrest a few hours later. It was found that his wife's skull had been crushed with a blunt instrument and two bottles of an anesthetic nearby led officials to believe she had been drugged.

The body of Mrs. Edwards was examined a few weeks later and an examination made by the state chemist. In an official report to Solicitor Ben Perry, the chemist stated that no evidence was found of a drug in her internal organs.

The physician has been confined in the Bessemer jail, where he moved after Judge J. C. B. Gwin ruled that his transfer to the main county prison at Birmingham was illegal.

'Dante' To Find Something To Do Every Hour Here

It is now a generally known fact that the life of an actor is not an easy one. Whatever opinion the individual may have of the stage as an institution, and they cover every shade of thought, pretty nearly the whole world knows that the performer, individually, is one of the hardest working of mortals.

Particularly when the work is being done as the member of the cast of a traveling attraction or, as it is known, a "road show."

But, busy as the average actor is, he rarely finds his days and nights so filled with engagements as does the magician. By "magician" is meant the stage performer who bases his attraction upon his ability to perform apparent feats of magic, of sleight-of-hand and of legerdemain. Such a performer, in fact, as Houdini, Keller, Thurston and a host of others. Such a performer as "Dante" who comes with his own company to the Atlanta theater next week, to mystify, puzzle and thrill Atlanta for the entire week.

Perhaps all of Dante's engagements cannot be classified as "work." For he has many social engagements to be filled during his week's stay in this city. But none the less they keep him busy and, when it is remembered that he also must spend about three hours at the theater, for each matinee and night performance, as well as many hours in preparing for performances, and "cleaning up" afterwards, it leaves the question of when he eats, sleeps and enjoys a little privacy, almost as great a puzzle as anything he does upon the stage.

On Monday night, when he makes his first appearance here, the Atlanta Society of Magicians will attend the performance in a body. This same organization will give a supper in Dante's honor, after the performance on Tuesday night.

Tuesday morning the magician will go to the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children, at Decatur, where he will stage an impromptu performance for the little patients there. At noon the same day he is scheduled to be the guest of honor at the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis club.

On Friday, at noon, he will be the guest of the Kiwanis club and, sandwiched in between these engagements and his professional appearance at the theater, he will fill half a dozen or more private social engagements which have been made for him during his stay in the city.

The life of a magician is undoubtedly a busy one. Maybe, if he wasn't a magician, he couldn't squeeze 20 hours into every day.

World War Veteran Found Dead in Bed In Downtown Hotel

The body of Robert Rufus Powell, 48, was found at 8 o'clock Sunday in his room in the downtown hotel. Rigger mortis had set in and the house physician declared he had been dead several hours—probably since he retired Saturday night.

The deceased was a disabled veteran of the World war and had been in ill health for several years. His death was not unexpected, it was said.

He is survived by his sister, Mrs. Gertrude Cloud, of Atlanta, and two uncles, Captains J. T. and J. R. Anderson, both of the United States army, with homes in Cartersville.

The body will be taken to Cartersville today for interment in charge of the Greenberg & Bond funeral parlors.

THREE ARE RESCUED FROM BURNING HOME

Council Bluffs, Iowa, January 25.—Two children, Robert, 14, and Winifred, 15, of Major General and Matthew Tinley of Council Bluffs, together with a maid, were rescued from the burning home of the general late tonight by a neighbor, Egger Madson. General and Mrs. Tinley were absent when the fire started.

General Tinley's famous sabre, which was presented to him by the government in recognition of his valor during the war, was recovered by Tinley after he donned his fireman's gear mask. He disregarded warnings from firemen and searched the burning embers for the trophy.

AMERICUS BANK BUYS CITY PAVING BONDS

Americus, Ga., January 25.—(Special.)—City council here has just sold to the Planters' Bank of Americus $60,000 in street improvement bonds, recently authorized by the voters of Americus. The price paid by the bank for the securities, which bear 4-1/2 per cent interest, was $58,250 plus accrued interest, and city officials are pleased with the price secured.

There were five other bidders for the bonds, the highest price offered being that of the Planters bank, and the lowest, $57,300, offered by an Atlanta concern.

LOWER MINNESOTA IN GRIP OF BLIZZARD

St. Paul, Minn., January 25.—A blizzard raged tonight over the lower half of Minnesota. Parts of the Dakotas and the western portion of Wisconsin also were affected. In some sections of western Minnesota trains and highway traffic were interfered with because of drifted snow. Temperatures fell rapidly toward the zero mark.

Shriners' Big Snow Dance To Be Held Tuesday Night

MISS ANNA MAE COLEMAN.

It's going to snow Tuesday night. The secret is out. The answer to advertisements which have been running in The Constitution's classified columns for a week informing the public that it was going to snow Tuesday night, will be found in this story.

The Shrine snow dance, which will be thrown open to all Masons and all friends of Masons, will be given in the Auditorium Tuesday night beginning at 9 o'clock and ending at 1 o'clock. Doors will open at 8.

A real snowstorm indoors is promised by Shriners who have been busy for several weeks preparing to make this year's snow dance better in every way than previous affairs and every one who has attended a Shrine snow dance knows what delightful affairs they have been.

Bright and early Monday morning a crew of workmen will begin decorating the auditorium for the occasion and when the work is completed, under the direction of Virgil Shepard, the big hall will appear as a forest with snow clinging to boughs of the pine tops and evergreens which will be banded in front of the box.

The entire dancing floor will be covered with mica dust, giving the appearance of snow and making the floor excellent for dancing, as mica is much "slipper" than wax.

Will Sprinkle Dancers.

At a given time during the dance, all incandescent lights will be turned out and green lights will flood the hall. Then from its rafters will sift the artificial snow, sprinkling dancers with white confetti.

Dancing will be suspended at certain intervals during the evening and a number of high-class specialty acts will be presented from the stage.

Three games on Wesley court in engaged to present the stage numbers and each girl in the cast is a finished artist.

Miss Anna Mae Coleman, well-known dancing teacher, will have four of her pupils assisting her. Miss Coleman will present a solo toe number, Misses Ossie and Dorothy Smith, "O'G" and "Dot," known as a modern version of jazz dancing, and Miss Emily Satterfield and Miss Gladys Hill will present a scarf dance.

Miss Paula Dural, whose dancing has been a pleasing event at several recent functions, will present a number.

Miss Catherine Jones, assisted by six juveniles, will present a snow ballet. The stage will represent a New England winter scene and a miniature snowstorm will be in progress during the number.

Many Are Eligible.

The affair, which will be informal, is being given under the auspices of the Shrine temple and all Masons and all friends of Masons are eligible to attend. Any Mason can purchase tickets for himself and as many friends as he desires, merely by exhibiting his card to any of the ticket sellers at the Auditorium box office. Those who are not Masons and wish to attend can do so by having any Mason endorse their tickets.

Music for the dancing and for the specialty numbers will be furnished by the Peerless Entertainers, who have been regularly engaged for dances by the Shrine at the Ansley hotel.

At the conclusion of the evening's festivities the committee in charge will present two of the ladies present with handsome parrot coats which are now on display in J. P. Allen's window. Admission is $1 and tickets are now on sale by Shriners, also at Shrine headquarters, at 100 Peachtree, at Bame's Victrola store, Thornton's Cafeteria and at Steel York's M. & B. soda and cigar stand at 32 Luckie. Tickets will also be on sale at the Auditorium box office on the night of the dance.

FARMERS' CONFERENCE TO OPEN AT ATHENS

Athens, Ga., January 25.—(Special.)—All state organizations operating in the interest of the farmer will meet at the State College of Agriculture during the coming Farmers' Week for the purpose of formulating an adequate agricultural and live stock program for Georgia to put into effect in 1927, according to plans announced by Dr. Andrew M. Soule.

This is the first time such a conference has been held, it is stated, and with the large number of agricultural leaders invited to deliberate in the meetings, it is expected that a farm policy will be drawn up covering all phases of the agricultural situation to the credit of the American farmer.

Nine committees have been selected to be assigned a definite part of the program. Conferences will be held throughout the week of January 25-31 and the final plan will be presented to the Farmers' Week assembly when completed. The list of groups appointed is as follows:

Horticulture—J. M. Patterson, chairman; Putney, T. H. McHaffon, Athens; W. H. Davidson, Fort Valley; R. H. Black, Cornelia; J. J. Parham, Adel; J. L. Budeau, Savannah.

Live Stock—H. M. McDowell, chairman; M. P. Jamison, Athens; J. P. Jackson, Savannah; C. H. Bishop, Ashburn; Fred Welch, Atlanta; C. A. Bryant, Lavonia, and W. O. Lloyd, Lexington.

Farm crops—H. H. Milam, chairman; C. K. C. Ansley, Bainbridge; W. F. Whaley, McRae; Alvin Neely, C. H. White, Atlanta, and A. P. Brantley, Blackshear.

Home economics—Mrs. Ira E. Farmer, chairman, Thomson; Miss Lois Dowdle, Athens; Mrs. W. H. Emmett, Americus; Miss Jessie Burton, Rome; Miss Mary Hansard, Elberton, and Mrs. W. W. Beskin, Carrollton.

Poultry husbandry—C. S. Burden, chairman, Hoxaaville; J. H. Wood, Athens; A. W. Ashford, Sr., Watkinsonville; George O'Kelly, Winterville; J. D. Bell, Columbus; S. C. and Governor Campbell, Atlanta.

Cooperative marketing—J. E. Conwell, chairman, Atlanta, and M. C. Gay, Athens.

County organization—F. H. Abbott, chairman, Atlanta; J. G. Oliver, Athens; J. L. D. Hughes, Danville; R. C. Franklin, St. Marys; Mrs. N. L. Smith, Ashburn; A. V. Howe, Tallapoosa and D. S. Barker, Atlanta.

Firm Credits—C. L. Williamson, chairman, Atlanta; J. Phil Campbell, Athens; H. E. Choate, Atlanta; C. O. Carpenter, Macon; Robert Strickland, Atlanta; W. R. Rorer, Athens; J. D. Bell, Columbus, S. C., and Governor Campbell, Atlanta.

Cooperative marketing—J. E. Conwell, chairman, Atlanta, and M. C. Gay, Athens.

TRADE UNION STRENGTH SHOWS GREAT INCREASE

New York, January 25.—Trade union strength, as measured by membership was "relatively twice as great in 1920 as in 1910," according to a report issued today by the national bureau of economic research.

According to tables compiled by the organization in 1910 about one-tenth of the country's wage earners were organized, while in 1920 about one-fifth of them had joined trade unions. There were 4,881,200 wage earners in unions, out of a total of 25,480,077 workers, including agriculture in 1920, a percentage of 20.8; in 1910 there were 2,101,502 trade union members out of 10,252,941 wage earners, giving agriculture, a percentage of 10.9, says the report.

'Janice Meredith' Proves Delightful Romantic Play

BY LOYD A. WILHOIT.

Once in a while master minds of the screen do exactly the right thing. That is to say, they abandon the sex theme, with its sickening love and disgusting intrigue, and produce some good, wholesome, red-blooded thing that was a classic a generation ago—when people were slightly more fastidious in their stage tastes.

Sunday afternoon at Loew's Grand theater a big audience witnessed a private screening of one of these none-too-frequent attractions. It was Paul Leicester Ford's "Janice Meredith," and beautiful Marion Davies played the title role.

It was a wonderful picture; another splendid, clean superproduction to the credit of the American screen; an added proof that the good old stirring stories of yesterday can be filmed with marvelous results and with great drawing power.

Incidentally it might be mentioned to the credit of those who filmed "Janice" that they were content to leave the author's work unaltered and sought to be true to the atmosphere which Ford created for his American revolutionary heroine. This in itself is no mean recommendation to those who feel that old favorites are not improved by the new pencils of scenario writers.

And so it is as the historical setting of the story is concerned, it provided several hundred Americans with absolute conviction that one does not have to read French, English or even more remote history to find chronicled events of inspiring bravery, of unflinching sacrifice, of undying gallantry, and of intense human interest. Scenes of Revolution.

Those who see in "Janice Meredith" such well-known figures as George Washington, Patrick Henry, Thomas Jefferson, Charles Lee, Paul Revere and a host of others of revolutionary fame, will be impressed with this fact. I can remember no more thrilling motion picture scene than that of the crossing of the ice-blogged Delaware and the subsequent capture of the Hessians at Trenton; and another remarkable historical scene was at the siege of Yorktown and the surrender of Cornwallis.

The photographic effects are truly marvelous, and the support accorded Marion Davies by a splendid cast of famous performers adds to the success of the production. Chief among these is Harrison Ford, who plays the patriot-bound servant, Charles Fowles. With Holbrook Blinn as Lord Clowes, he makes his role yield every possibility of which it is capable. In the cast are Joseph Kilgour, as George Washington; George Nash, W. C. Field, Maclyn Arbuckle, George Siegmann, Tyrone Power and others.

"Janice Meredith," produced by Cosmopolitan, is booked for an early appearance here, and everyone would do well to make a mental note to see it.

ATLANTA INDUSTRIALLY.

At a meeting of a number of manufacturers and merchants at the chamber of commerce Friday a concerted movement was begun to hold in Atlanta at an early date an auditorium and show window exposition of "made-in-Atlanta" products.

This movement has as its inspiration the visualization of Atlanta's strength today as a manufacturing center, and not the advertising of the specific home-made products.

The fact is, Atlanta is one of the potential manufacturing centers of the nation, and even the people of Atlanta are wholly unacquainted with the variety of products made in Atlanta, and with the gross enormity of the city's industrial payroll.

There are some of the largest factories in the country located in or adjacent to the city, and there are scores of smaller factories, the chain of industry running into fully 1,500 different articles of commerce.

It is a good movement, and one in which the merchants and the agents of out-of-town manufacturers distributing through this market, ought to encourage the importance of Atlanta as a city of factories adds to the importance of Atlanta as a distributing center for goods manufactured elsewhere.

Atlanta people ought to know Atlanta better, and know the city's resources better. It will quicken the pride of every citizen.

REAFFIRMS VIEWS.

In an address at the white house delivered before the delegates of a national conference on the causes and cure of war, Saturday, President Coolidge reaffirmed in no uncertain terms the administration's position in favor of America's participation in the world court.

This is significant in view of the recent attacks of the old irreconcilable group in the senate on the Paris protocol, by which America's claims against Germany are to be paid, and against the Dawes reparation plan in particular. And again because of recent changes in the state department and in the London diplomatic post.

Rumors have been rife that President Coolidge after March 4 would take formal charge of foreign relations, and that he would feel an independence he does not feel as the legate of the Harding administration. Indeed the rumors have been that he might be more sympathetic to the isolation viewpoint.

All of these speculations, however, have been set aside by the president's own words, reaffirming full strength in world court participation.

Among other things, he said: "I believe that, just as the armament conference was a timely and convincing cooperation on the political side, so the Dawes plan was a similarly timely and effective effort for rehabilitation on the economic side."

"I believe that the next step which we may well take is by way of participation in the permanent court of international justice. I believe that with our adherence to that tribunal, for which I earnestly hope, it will become one medium in which we may gradually be precipitated and crystallized a body of international law and procedure which, by avoiding the dangers that would attend the establishment of a supergovernment, will ultimately command the respect and approbation of the world's public opinion and the cooperation of the nations."

"I am convinced that if our civilization is worthy of its name then physical force is not the only authority which may enforce an anti-war policy. I feel strongly that public opinion, based on proper information, working through agencies that the common man may see and understand, may be made the ultimate authority among the nations."

This leaves no further doubt as to the president's views on the world court, and also on the Dawes reparation plan. The truth is there should never have been any doubt.

LIFT THE EMBARGO.

On this page is a communication from L. B. Robeson, prominent Cobb county breeder of pure-bred poultry, regarding a quarantine existing in the southeastern states, one against the other, that is apparently entirely unnecessary, and is exceptionally injurious to breeders at a season when they can be injured most.

The correspondent also endorses a letter written to Dr. Bahnsen on the subject, which is of strong relating interest.

It appears that the United States Department of Agriculture has made full investigations and found that the European fowl pest is confined entirely to the states in the north-east. It has, therefore, made the suggestion that states not affected could safely resume shipments of live poultry among themselves, quarantining only against the infected states.

Then, why is this not done? Why should breeders in Georgia, which is not infected, be restrained from shipping their fowls into a state that is not infected, and particularly so if they have been properly inspected and certified?

For the next two months the breeders of fancy poultry must do the volume of their year's business. They sell breeding stock all over the country. To be compelled to sell their fancy fowls, grown under expensive conditions, for common market stock would mean enormous losses.

The interest is a big one in Georgia, and throughout the southeast. Unless there is an unimpeachable reason why this interest should be penalized because of the pest in the northeast the present embargo should be removed and that at once.

LOOKING FORWARD.

During the year 1925 startling developments in the realm of science may reasonably be expected. Man, aided by the best mechanical appliances he has ever known, will attempt to solve problems and to invade regions which have heretofore been beyond his reach. Stimulated by past successes, the human mind will make greater efforts than ever before to penetrate the mysteries of life.

Viewed in the light of recent accomplishments, it is easy to feel that the shell which until now has held our embryonic scientific knowledge, is beginning to crack, and we are approaching the dawn of a sunburst of understanding of the universe and its laws, surpassing in magnitude our wildest dreams.

During the coming year attempts will no doubt be made to penetrate the earth's crust, explore the bottom of the sea and utilize its resources. The instinct for consolidation of resources and effort and the elimination of waste will no doubt make itself felt to a far greater degree than ever before in business, politics, religious activities and other realms of human effort.

During the past decade life has become tremendously more serious, more intense in its aims and desires, less tolerant of authority and less considerate of tradition, and it stands ready to expend its energies in seeking to solve the mysteries which surround it, to utilize whatever resources lie in reach and to make existence more productive, more efficient and more satisfactory.

One of the outstanding problems of the future is the improvement of home life in both town and country. To provide ample, comfortable housing for the town wage-earner and the farm tenant—to place within the reach of every person who is willing to work a modest supply of the comforts of life and bring to each child the opportunity to obtain at least a common school education—these constitute one of the great tasks to which the energies of our best minds must address themselves.

President Coolidge doesn't look like a make-it-snappy man, and yet he can put 'em in and out of office in less time than it takes to tell it.

It's all right to view an eclipse through smoked glass, but some people will never understand that that isn't the way to see the world.

The first thing the Lady Spring will do when she comes tripping in will be to hang old Winter out to dry.

The Frankfort News says that Indiana's hog-killing week will probably include some of the road-hogs.

A number of towns still have blue Sundays, but make up for 'em by whooping it up on red Mondays.

The president compliments the newspaper boys because, like himself, they are "there with the goods."

In some instances we might change the poet's definition to read: "Music is a cross-word puzzle in search of a word."

tender. Maybe it is because this section produced good feed crops last year and there was plenty of corn birds to feed on. Not like the old days, when cotton was about the only thing grown."

They're Human, Too.
When it looked like another Noah's flood was coming, Editor McIntosh wrote, in the Albany Herald:

"Men who write for the newspapers are human, and when they gather and rains rain and one torrential freshet sweeps down upon an until it begins to look, as though it might be a flood, and the cheerful, sunny way."

plain—

The Osborne Flyin' Man hits off this one: "Never place a top wire in a position where he can fire a

Says the Restarter, in the Aurora Advertiser: "The difference between the political and the commercial advertiser is that the political advertiser passes through his advertisement in the old covered wagons, mule and horse-drawn. This, in a measure, spares the advertiser in the American people, as they do not have the "Bossy" trailing along."

Industry and Growth
(From the Miami (Fla.) Herald.)
The city of Atlanta claims an increase of population of 40 per cent since 1920.
This claim is based on a recent unofficial census and there is no reason to question
it.

The Atlanta Constitution, in seeking the reason for this growth, admits the fact that Atlanta is an inland town and that it is not in a new and growing agricultural region would seem to indicate that its growth should be slow. The reason for the increase must be sought elsewhere, and it finds it in the persistent effort which has been made to attract industries to Atlanta.
The reasoning seems sound and logical.

It is quite evident in these days that a city, except under the most extraordinary conditions, cannot grow rapidly unless it becomes an industrial city. This is a fact that should be taken into account by all city planners. Even Los Angeles, beginning its career as a tourist city, learned after a number of years that this was not enough.
It has been carrying on a vigorous campaign for many years to build up industrial centers, and has been as successful that it is now the metropolis of the Pacific.
It is true that we have here a number of advantages which are to be found nowhere else in the country. We have a climate unsurpassed, we have agricultural possibilities of vast extent. We have accessibility to the markets of the north. These facts are responsible for the recent phenomenal growth of this section. Nothing can remove these advantages and there is no reason to fear that the growth will cease.

It should be recognized, however, that the larger the city grows the more it will need industries. What the city must have is a sufficient number of industries to absorb the surplus population. The industrial superstructure should be laid the strong foundation of manufacture. It is not enough to build homes, hotels and apartments. If Atlanta is to be a substantial city it must provide work for thousands of citizens who will desire to live here through the year. A city needs not only homes but smokestacks.

Adolph Lewisohn Wires Friendly Thrift Message

Editor Constitution: I think it appropriate on Safe Investment day of National Thrift week to give a word of advice to the public.

A very large amount of money is lost in bad investments, particularly by the small investor who listens to tips given out by irresponsible parties. I would advice investors to make inquiries from banks or bankers of high standing before making investments in securities. All reputable banks and bankers will welcome such inquiries and be glad to give advice regarding investments. ADOLPH LEWISOHN,
New York, January 25, 1925.

Just in Passing

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON

On this page is reprinted an editorial from the Miami Herald that touches on Atlanta's remarkable growth in population, the causes, and it agrees with The Constitution that the marked increase in the industrial strength of Atlanta is the outstanding reason.

It uses this argument as an object lesson for Miami to study, evidently believing that even so sun-kissed a city as the peninsula resort must eventually find factory payrolls for a permanent and an enduring prosperity.

Says the Herald:
"The larger the city grows the more it will need industries. What the city must have in a few years should be sought now.
Underneath the superstructure should be laid the strong foundation of manufacture. It is not enough to build homes, hotels and apartments. If Miami is to be a substantial city it must provide work for thousands of citizens who will desire to live here all through the year. A city needs not only homes but smokestacks."

Truer words were never spoken, and the Miami Herald is to be commended for having the courage to sound the note of warning in the very midst of an unusual season of speculative activity.

It is not possible to fight fire with rose-water. An attitude of self-satisfaction is dangerous. For a city to overlook its weak points, and to lulby itself to sleep every night with the honeyed words of those who capitalize themselves with hot-air-optimism, is to follow the trail of the baby-kissing political demagogue who feeds on insincerity.

Optimism is certainly more agreeable than pessimism. Indeed there is no place for pessimism anywhere.
That is an aggravated form of grouch that deliberately shuts the sunlight out.

But there is no sense in letting optimism close one's eyes to truth.
If so errors will never be remedied, nor will we progress under the stimulation of profiting by our mistakes.

The man who is entirely satisfied with himself and his accomplishments has a limited territory to survey, and but little to pass judgment on.

The same thing is true of a town or a city, or anything else.

Recently a group of possibly 75 business men of Atlanta met, and discussed with the utmost frankness some things that they regarded as not conducive to Atlanta's usual progress and good name.

It was an open meeting and The Constitution in its function as a newspaper carried a faithful and accurate news account of that meeting, quoting much that was said.

There was no bias or attempt to editorialize the news. That does not mean that it was not a frank expression of the basic French feeling that a settlement of French war debts should take into consideration French sacrifices has just been made in the chamber of deputies by Louis Marin, former minister of the Poincare regime. In this editorial
a famous historian interprets both this attitude and the American attitude towards it.

France's Appeal for Understanding
BY JAMES T. SHOTWELL

(A frank expression of the basic French feeling that a settlement of French war debts should take into consideration French sacrifices has just been made in the chamber of deputies
by Louis Marin, former minister of the Poincare regime. In this editorial
a famous historian interprets both this attitude and the American attitude
towards it.)

Our attitude towards France since the war is a good illustration of the fact that the frailties of our friends interest us a great deal more than their good qualities. We have never tried to understand what it would be like to be in France's place. We have lacked the imagination and sympathy which is the first basis of understanding. The help we brought to her when she was so closely beleaguered in 1917 was given with breathless spontaneity, and the very hastiness of the action did not call for sufficient thoughtful consideration of the issues into which we were injecting ourselves. Once we had helped to drive the invader from French territory it seemed to most of us that our task was done. But if we meant—or mean—to bring real peace to France—or to the world—we must drive from the territory of the French mind the menacing presence of an invading fear.

Now there are two ways to do this.
One was tried by Premier Poincare;
the other is being tried by Premier Herriot. The Poincare method is the old historic reliance upon force.
A substitute for American participation in Europe is sought in treaties with less-than-literate states or less dependent upon France and in the French military predominance culminating in the occupation of the Ruhr.

On the 11th of May last, the mistake was rectified by the election which overthrew Monsieur Herriot to power.
The old liberal France had spoken again. This is the France which we understand and we should show our understanding by the efforts of the present French government to secure the solution of the two main problems for France—that of security, on the one hand, and of a restoration of its economic stability on the other.

With reference to the former, Monsieur Herriot found a new solution in the League of Nations as a substitute for the military guarantee and treaties of alliance of Monsieur Poincare.
While frankly recognizing that the protocol of Geneva in which this new determination of France finds its expression, as it stands, is primarily suited to continental Europe and that it needs amendment before it can be fully accepted by outlying powers, there should be at very least a benevolent neutrality upon the part of the United States towards the great effort of France liberal opinion to free itself from the continuing menace of war. For by freeing itself from this menace it may perhaps free the world.

There remained the other great problem of French policy, that of its economic rehabilitation including the settlement of reparations and of war debts. In this regard, America has not yet seen its fully duty. The money spent by France in America after we went to war in so far as it was spent for actually waging the war, was a part of our own military effort. If French soldiers before our troops were in the trenches, and after we declared war, shot away munitions manufactured here, it is only a quibble to say that it is their munitions rather than ours that we are repaying. This argument is a purely technical one. It is an additional protection against German guns. In short, the money actually spent by the allies upon the real prosecution of the war after America went in should be a debt pooled and paid according to the various capacities of the allied and associated powers. Anything short of this is a shameful policy for ourselves.

Blackburn Writes Further Of Transportation Issue

Editor Constitution: In printing my card in the issue of the Constitution of yesterday, dealing with traffic conditions in Atlanta, a paragraph was omitted which I deemed of prime importance, in view of the fact that this paragraph presented the phase of the discussion that has only been incidentally touched upon.

This had reference to the criticism frequently made against the power company for allowing passengers to stand in aisles and swinging to straps.

A commission was appointed some time ago to investigate the reason for crowded cars in the District of Columbia. After an exhaustive inquiry this commission found that the crowding of cars was so intense with the impudence of the people that it could not be altogether relieved by one-minute schedules; that people would board a car already crowded, when they would see an approaching car less than a block away, practically empty and routed in the same direction.

The commission is concerned with the recovery of the lost revenue against the Marietta line, by Judge Ellis, was indicative of the eloquent fairness of the learned jurist. BENJAMIN M. BLACKBURN,

Health Talks
BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Are You a Vagabond?
This is the continuation of our talk about mucous colitis, otherwise called mucous colitis and myxomatosis intestinalis. Last time we dragged in the whole inside nervous system, you have probably forgotten by this time.
We told how all the internal vital organs and bodily functions are under the control of two antagonistic antagonistic nervous mechanisms, the sympathetic and the autonomic, which are independent of the spinal nervous system and practically beyond any influence which may be produced through the spine or its nerve connections. And we wound up by observing that the perfect balance of these two antagonistic nervous mechanisms—the drive of the sympathetic and the inhibition or steady-acting of the autonomic—means perfect health and blissful unconsciousness of one's innards, but in the myxomatosis states, colic or any tendency thereto, there is a generally a preponderance of autonomic nervous action over sympathetic action, and such a preponderance is known to physicians as vag-abondism (another name for the autonomic nervous system being the vagus system).

Remember, now, before you start talking on any symptoms, that I have twice clearly pointed out in this discussion the impossibility of drawing a sharp line between health and mucositis—here is a rather wide border land between, and as I have said, most of us roam around more or less now and then in this dim borderland. Vagabondism is a common condition, especially among young adults. Now then, just how does one behave with vagabondism? And if one happens to be a vagabond must one necessarily have mucous colitis? No, there are lots of other things that a vagabond may have—such as asthma, hyperchlorhydria (which means excessive secretion of acid in the stomach) spastic constipation, bradycardia (I blush to confess this means slow heart action, slow pulse), excessive sweating, and rapid, nervous, tremulous hands, big shiny eyes, underweight, too much salivary secretion, rough or husky voice, and so on—help yourself.
If one or two of these symptoms "hit your case" it doesn't mean a thing. They hit mine, yet what did I tell you about the borderland? But if you've got nearly all of them, or many, you're sure enough a vagabond, and ought to see a doctor about it.
Not that the doctor can determine just where or what the cause of vag-abondism is in a given case, but he can accomplish a great deal for the vague individual's general condition by medication directed toward the autonomic or sympathetic nervous systems. These nervous mechanisms are readily influenced by the intelligent administration of drugs. Instead, the sympathetic part is stimulated, and the vagabond is brought under control by the internal secretions (dreadful glands). That's far enough for us to go here. Not another word or I will give you a prescription to send you to the proper place for treatment, if you think you need it.

Vagabond individuals usually have a high sugar tolerance—that is, they can consume more sugar than a normal individual can without resultant glycosuria (sugar eliminated in urine).
There is usually a high acidity noted in the urinalysis, and associated with that is a certain irritability and frequency.

I do not know, but I suspect that very small doses of tobacco smoke oppose the vagabondism, whereas what the usual tobacco user deems moderate smoking (more than twice a day) tends to produce vagabondism.

Poultry Embargo Hurting Georgia Man Uselessly

Editor Constitution: I inclose a copy of a letter I have written Dr.
Peter Bahnsen, state veterinarian.
It is a letter to the Georgia government to quarantine against each other when no disease exists in any of them. The same is true of practically all of the British delegates, but the alleged suppression, told this writer that he had been told to discover any other British delegates, but he had seen no violence. Who is right? What happened there in Georgia? Were they having a huge picnic, perhaps, and ran into a pre-war stock of vodka?

Aut Caesar Aut Nullus.
Signor Benito Mussolini has given notice to the Italian chamber that he will ask for more power to deal with the political and economic situation.
He has more power even now than the king, but he wants more.
In the interest of civilization it becomes a duty to ask a few political questions. What happened there in Georgia? Were they having a huge picnic, perhaps, and ran into a pre-
war stock of vodka?

Constitution's Review Pages If Owen Meredith Was In Now Leading Entire Country

The Constitution's Weekly Review department is now conceded to have the best and largest weekly review department of nearly 200 papers throughout the country having business review departments.

This paper was the first in the south to put on a Weekly Business Review section, and has steadily gained the confidence of the public and the advertisers until it has outgrown every other paper in America along these lines.

Of the many advertisers in this department, many of them have been on these pages 3 and 4 years, and most of them are kind enough to write or phone in that they are getting splendid results for the money they pay.

The advertisers on these pages are selected as being among some of Atlanta's most reliable firms, and while this department in no way guarantees their contracts, yet this paper itself, after carefully looking into their reliability enters into contracts with them.

There is probably no form of advertising where the public gets a better knowledge of the various commodities offered than through this department, for it is a part of the editor's duty here to visit or inspect each plant or factory, to obtain and give first-hand information to the public in write-ups of the various commodities or services rendered by the advertisers upon these pages.

This service is worth as much to the buyer as it is to the advertiser, for the information gained by the writer and passed on to the reader is worth much more to the buyer in money, time and convenience.

As it has ever been the policy of this department to do its utmost for the upbuilding of Atlanta and the south, it is kindly asking its readers to remember that for every dollar you spend in Atlanta and the south, some may return to you, while those sent a long distance away are gone beyond recall.

While Mr. Milam himself has always been an expert sheet metal worker, he has added from time to time the most expert mechanics to be had in every important branch in the automobile industry, and as each man takes special pride in his work, the total result is a fine finished job as a whole.

Take the painting of an automobile here as an illustration, should it have any little dents or defective parts, everything is made smooth as when the car was new before a paint brush is put on it, then work is built up and when the car leaves Mr. Milam's shop, it looks just like it came out of the factory.

Right here it may be well to say that all those contemplating having their cars painted, this season should do so now for Mr. Milam only does painting of the better kind, and to do this work right, sometimes many coats of paint and enamel is required, all of which require a certain amount of time to dry. The upholstery department, as well as the recovering department, here is also in capable hands and splendid service can always be had in both these departments.

Of course as Mr. Milam started out making and repairing fenders, he has built up a big department in this branch, and his good workmen and regular customers enable him to specialize in the making of hoods, fenders and other sheet metal parts.

As this firm is located on Auburn avenue, just below Courtland street, it is easily accessible, and if there is anything the matter with any car that runs on four wheels, suppose you take it there to headquarters, for all kinds of car trouble, and see what can be done.

Time was in the not far distant past when if you wanted to buy, or have anything made in Atlanta, that was a little out of the ordinary, you were told by the salesman that he did not have it in stock, but he would send away your order and have the same made for you.

But times have been changing in this line the last few years, and now the slogan used all over the south is, "We will send to Atlanta and get it or have it made or repaired there."

The big laundries in Atlanta wash the linen used by some of the hundred portation companies, and the linen soiled in Washington, D. C., is dumped into the same washing machine as that that comes from Kansas City, New Orleans and Key West.

Should the lighting system of a Pullman car get out of order in any portion within several hundred miles of Atlanta, the orders are sent into Atlanta. The Bryan Electric company of Edgewood avenue will repair it, for everybody knows that this live, progressive firm is headquarters for everything electrical.

This firm carries an immense stock of electrical fixtures, and anything required in the modest home or the largest hotel or commercial plant, can be found here in stock. This firm is recognized as one of Atlanta's largest electrical contractors, and has a large outside working crew that is kept very busy going from one big job to another, having just completed electrical work at the new Buick building on Spring street.

And he can dine well with little or no extra cost, especially if he uses that celebrated Bell's Mayonnaise, Thousand Island dressing, or tartar sauce, that you get just inside the door at the Fulton Market, 25-27 E. Alabama street.

Bell must be a follower of Waldo Emerson wherein he states: "There is always a best way of doing everything," for Bell makes the most delicious mayonnaise, Thousand Island dressing, and tartar sauce to be had in the Fulton market and his way is the best way of making good things better.

The thoughtful housewife or cook who wishes to spring a surprise upon her family or friends can do so by adding Bell's mayonnaise, Thousand Island dressing and tartar sauce to her meat and win praise for her efforts to please.

Many people go a long way out of their way to get Bell's products after having eaten them one time, and as they add a delightful, teasing, pleasing taste to the several kinds of fish, meats and salads, they make Atlanta people say that they now enjoy their meals more than they ever did before.

The fame of Bell's products are not confined strictly to Atlanta for many out-of-town people are steady buyers, and he does a big mail order business, mailing air-tight containers holding from 20 cents to a dollar's worth, thus giving the people out in the country the same opportunity to enjoy the good things as well as city folks.

GEORGIA INVESTORS ARE INVESTIGATING BEFORE THEY INVEST

Georgia investors, as a whole, are investigating before they invest. From sad experience in the past they have learned the folly of investing after they have purchased; and they are also beginning to rely on the investment advice which can be obtained from an established investment banker.

One fact many investors do not fully understand is that a good investment for one person may not be equally desirable for another. Many investment features they do not need. For instance, it is wise for a wealthy man to invest at least a large portion of his funds in tax exempt securities, but it is very foolish for the man of moderate means to do so. However, one rule which should be followed as much as possible by every investor is to diversify both in kind of securities and geographical location. For this reason Brannan, Beckham & Co. carry a complete line of securities, including municipal bonds, joint stock bank bonds, railroad bonds, public utility bonds, industrial bonds and first mortgage real estate bonds.

At this time there is a very large actual and potential market for first mortgage real estate bonds. Many other investors are just beginning to appreciate the advantages of having a portion of their funds invested in this type of security. A first mortgage real estate bond secured by income-producing property in the north and east now yields from 6 to 6 1/2 per cent. In the south and west this same type of bond yields 7 per cent, and in Florida 8 per cent. The difference in yield is not, as so many think, in safety, but is merely the difference in interest rates in different sections of the country, governed by the demand for money. Brannan, Beckham & Co. sell some first mortgage real estate bonds on income-producing property in Miami, Florida, where the mortgage is less than 50 per cent of the appraised value. These bonds are as safe as the northern and eastern 6 and 6 1/2 per cent bonds.

The return on first mortgage real estate bonds not generally known is that the issuing houses maintain a very good market on their issues, and in addition there is a good "across the counter" market in the east on a great many issues. Of course, these bonds are not as quickly convertible as some types of bonds, but they offer as much marketability as is needed by 95 per cent of investors, and a portion of funds invested in first mortgage real estate bonds will materially increase average yield, which is the one thing always desired by every investor. It is foolish to pay 1 to 2 per cent for a high degree of marketability when the investor doesn't need it, just as it is foolish to pay for tax exempt features when these features do not benefit. First mortgage real estate bonds may be selected in any maturity from one to fifteen years and in any denomination from $100 to $1,000.

There are five features which govern the yield of any bond, namely: Safety of principle, ample earnings applicable to interest, tax exemption, degree of marketability and degree of popularity. Look for the features needed in a bond but do not pay for the ones that are not of real value. Brannan, Beckham & Co. commenced business about two years ago but the officers, S. T. Brannan and F. E. Beckham, had many years' previous training in the investment banking field, and have interested with them in Brannan, Beckham & Co. some of the most prominent business and professional men in Atlanta. They will take pleasure in furnishing information regarding any investment contemplated, or in reporting on securities now held. This service is free and any investor is cordially invited to consult them regarding any investment problem. "Investigate Before You Invest," but obtain expert advice from an investment banker who has the facilities for gathering actual facts and who will gladly pass such information on as a part of a real investment service.

Business Notes

BY M. D. GLEASON

It pays well to advertise in the business review section of the Atlanta Constitution.

W. D. Hardaway reports that he is having a remarkable run on that hot tobacco coal at both his Lee street and Hunter street yards.

D. T. Ricks, president of the Standard Tent and Awning company, was a very busy man last week during the Southern Canvasmen's convention, which was held at the Robert Fulton hotel, this city.

R. F. Knox, the Marietta street sheet metal man, is reporting that many inquiries are coming in about that new patented blow pipe and solder that he has recently put on the market.

N. Brandt, the southern representative of the Ideal window sash supporter, states that the write-up about his splendid window supporter brought him several customers that were glad to get away from old troublesome rope and weight system.

Floyd Brothers, of 519 Flat Shoals road, are laying in large stocks of seasonal lumber and supplies in anticipation of having the busiest year since they began in business. The addition of R. C. Akin to this firm recently will greatly facilitate their production, as he will look after the office work which will leave the two Floyd brothers more time in the production departments.

The representatives of The Constitution's Weekly Business Review department, Messrs. R. E. Regan, O. H. Werner, H. W. Fletcher, H. W. Reines, J. L. Gregory and F. W. McClary are proud of the fact that through persistent hard work on their part and loyal cooperation of their many kind friends among the advertisers this department has eclipsed any other paper having a similar department. Wishing to maintain the lead they now have they would appreciate any calls at Main 5000 of any firms of good standing that would like to be with the other good firms on these weekly business pages.

We see it by the paper that a New York man renewed his youth by a fast. However, the best way to keep your youth is not to be fast.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

MUSICAL COMEDY

Very Good Eddie. (At the Lyric.) The musical comedy sensation of New York a few seasons ago, opens at the Lyric theater tonight in its original form and with a cast of nearly 40 people, including the regular members of the Lyric Players' Dramatic stock company, a chorus of 12 Atlanta girls, Calvin Rolfe's Famous Players' orchestra, Nat Anson, New York chorus director; Catherine Jones, Freida Sullivan, Marion Bonnell, Mary McCall and others. Although the augmented cast, the six complete changes of costume for the chorus, the lavish stage settings, the orchestra and special entertainers make the entire production several thousand dollars more expensive than any other since the players were reorganized, prices are to remain at the usual scale and the opening performance at 8:30 o'clock tonight will be at ladies' bargain prices.

Keith's Vaudeville. (At Keith's Forsyth.) There's real music in the way Pietro plays an accordion. Everyone who has heard him knows that. That's the reason his reception at Keith's Forsyth theater the first three days of this week, where he is appearing as headliner, is bound to be a genuine enthusiastic one.

Moreover, the program includes an added attraction in the act of the Royal Venetian Five, talented singers and instrumentalists, who offer a festive and a complete line of variety. A special feature of the bill will be the number of McCormick and Wallace, ventriloquists, who have a brand new act, presenting an old old entertainment in "The Little Red School House," and more.

Loew's Vaudeville. (At Loew's Grand.) Another big-time act with the popular favorites, Jim Toney and Ann Norman, will be seen at Loew's Grand theater this week. This pair of artists are experts at comedy, song and dance, and the sketch "A Man About Town" is their best. Another feature act on the bill is the Clair Twins and Melly Wells, from the Alhambra, Paris and the Ambassador, London. This trio came to Atlanta after a most successful tour of the continent. Frank C. and Melly Vernon in "Bessie Susie" have arranged an act that is sure to make you double up with laughter and more also. Irene Rich in "This Woman."

Pola Negri at Howard. Pola Negri, which opens at the Howard today in a new Famous Forsyth production, "Bessie Susie" directed by Raoul Walsh, the man who managed Douglas Fairbanks' "The Thief of Bagdad." Sada very good market on their issues, and in addition there is a good "across the counter" market in the east on a great many issues. Of course, these bonds are not as quickly convertible as some types of bonds, but they offer as much marketability as is needed by 95 per cent of investors, and a portion of funds invested in first mortgage real estate bonds will materially increase average yield, which is the one thing always desired by every investor. It is foolish to pay 1 to 2 per cent for a high degree of marketability when the investor doesn't need it, just as it is foolish to pay for tax exempt features when these features do not benefit. First mortgage real estate bonds may be selected in any maturity from one to fifteen years and in any denomination from $100 to $1,000.

"The Telephone Girl" comedy for this week is a clever effort from the Cosmopolitan magazine short story by H. C. Witwer and is called "The Bee's Knees."

WILL OUTLINE PROGRESS OF CONVENTION BUREAU

Addresses on cooperation and an outline of the progress of the Atlanta Convention bureau will feature the annual banquet at 7 o'clock Tuesday night of the organization at the Henry Grady hotel.

A special reception for the members of the bureau by the officers and staff will be held at 6:30 o'clock, in order to assure the success of the program of the evening.

Inasmuch as the convention bureau has been reorganized to include tourist and publicity departments and this being the first meeting of the organization since reorganization, President Frederic J. Paxton will outline the bureau's plan for the ensuing year before turning over the gavel to Ivan E. Allen, who will act as toastmaster. Mr. Allen is chairman of the committee on arrangements and it is stated that he has secured a number of speakers who can say a good deal in a few words to make short addresses.

Among topics upon which addresses will be heard are: "Tourist Possibilities of Atlanta from a Railroad Point of View," "Advertising and Publicity Possibilities of the City and State," and "The Convention Bureau's State of Work for the City." President Paxton will relate some of the work of the bureau since its organization in 1913.

Speakers scheduled to talk on cooperation, representing different phases of business and civic life in the city, will include: Mayor W. A. Sims, W. V. Gilmer, president of the Atlanta Hotel Men's association; Thomas L. Stokes, president of the Retail Merchants' association; W. R. C. Smith, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce; Virgil Moore, chairman of the Fulton county board of commissioners; H. L. McLendon, chairman of the auditorium committee of city council, and Frank L. Butler, of the Georgia Railway & Power Co.

Fulton county representatives in the Georgia legislature will be special guests of honor at the banquet.

FLORIDA METHODISTS VOTE FOR UNIFICATION

Bradenton, Fla., January 25.—The South Florida conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, at its annual session here today, voted in favor of unification with the Methodist Episcopal church, south. The vote was 32 for and 1 against.

The conference in session here is that of what is in the south commonly known as the Northern Methodist church. The vote was taken on a definite plan of unification with the so-called Southern Methodist church, proposed by a joint commission of the two churches. Before it can finally become effective, it must be voted upon by all the annual conferences of the two churches.

BUNDSEN EXPLAINS OYSTER GERM SCARE

Chicago, January 25.—Reasons why health officials here pointed an accusing finger at the oyster when a typhoid epidemic became apparent at the beginning of last month were outlined today by Dr. Herman N. Bundsen, commissioner of health, in his weekly health report.

"The increase in typhoid cases began November 30 and abated early in January," he stated. "In all, 123 cases and 20 deaths were reported. About four times as many as would have been expected under normal conditions during that period of time." He said the number of cases also indicated a common source of infection.

After considering the more usual sources of the disease the health officer eliminated all except oysters and one or two fresh vegetables, the report said.

The report stated that "about three-quarters of the patients reported they had eaten raw oysters about two weeks before they became sick," and the "number who ate raw oysters was almost exactly equal to the number of cases reported in excess of the normal expectancy for that season of the year." Warning against consumption of raw oysters, was given December 10 and investigations were set to the Atlantic coast oyster fields. These investigations found an increase of typhoid cases in the region where the beds supplying Chicago are located, and discovered that two oyster workers with typhoid fever had passed daily over oyster beds during the period of incubation, the report said.

Investigation in this field still is under way, but the report stated that "the shipper from whom most of the oysters had come which have been eaten by Chicago typhoid fever patients conducted one of the highest grade plants in the industry."

During the last week, the report stated, the number of cases has been less than normal.

CHICAGO HEALTH HEAD MAY VISIT NORFOLK.

Norfolk, Va., January 25.—It is probable that Dr. Herman Bundsen, health commissioner of Chicago, who was said to be the first health official to ban oysters from general use on suspicion that they were typhoid carriers, will come to this section to make a personal inspection of the oyster fields taken from local waters to determine for himself what units there is for his action. It was said he is going to Baltimore Tuesday to examine Maryland oysters, and an export will be made to have him come here.

City and state health authorities have issued repeated statements within the last ten days that oysters in this section have been found by chemical analysis to be free of pollution of any kind.

In spite of chemical tests and bacteriological examinations, supported by statements of health authorities

Famous Conjurer "Dante" Knight At The Atlanta

Dante, the renowned European conjurer, will appear at the Atlanta theater tonight when he will begin a week's engagement with matinees Wednesday and Saturday. In addition to his own wonderful European illusions, he will present the best of the Thurston-Kellar mysteries, which insure a combination that, for size and entertainment value, will long remain unexcelled in the annals of magical production. Dante has devoted an entire year to the preparation of this production for America. A large staff of workmen, skilled mechanics and artists have been busily engaged all of that time, under the supervision of the master magician, in devising the unusual—and some of them gigantic—in size—pieces of property and mechanical contrivances which are used in producing the baffling illusions and mysteries that feature his performance. These properties and contrivances are employed in effecting some of the most marvelous illusions that have ever been seen on the modern stage. Dante has combed Europe for able assistants, and brings with him a staff of twenty-three—every one an expert in the particular task he is called upon to do. Featured among his own and the Thurston-Kellar mysteries and illusions which Dante presents are "The Ghost Woman," a psychic phenomena of the age. You may ask her any question that chances to come into your mind. She is proclaimed to be unequalled as an exponent of mental telepathy. Alvin's Six Musical Wizards, a sextette of merry melody makers augmented by Dante's travesty impersonations of famous conductors. The mysterious Chinese fountain, of myriad streams, a spectacle of ancient oriental splendor. Also such miracles as creation, the phantom woman, the miracle, the great East Indian rope trick, the vanishing piano, the lady and the lion, the spirit cabinet and a score of other weird, mystical effects bordering on the supernatural.

STUDENTS ENROLLED IN AGRICULTURAL CLUB

Sparta, Ga., January 25.—(Special.)—The Hancock county school teachers are cooperating with S. D. Truitt, county agent, in organizing corn, cotton, chicken and pig clubs for 1925. Some of the schools are sending in reports, which include every pupil in the school as a member of one of the clubs. This is gratifying to the promoters and is an indication that Hancock county will lead in club activities again this year, as it did last.

A local bank has also agreed to furnish funds for financing all of the club boys, the crop proceeds next fall will reimburse them. It is said that all of the club enrollments will be complete in the next 30 days.

tells you how

The lives of all the leading players, charmingly told; all the leading directors, too. And their autographed portraits! The old family album had the place of honor on the parlor table a generation ago; today it's THE BLUE BOOK OF THE SCREEN. As you turn its pages, you remember the big pictures you have seen the various players in; you see their homes, their pets, their hobbies; the studios in which these pictures are produced. Everything! THE BLUE BOOK OF THE SCREEN is the picture "fan's" delight. Everything you want to know about pictures and picture making, written at Hollywood by "insiders" of the industry.

415 pages; over 250 portraits and 300 other illustrations; 8 1/2 by 11 inches in size and printed entirely in ROTOGRAVURE.

Phantom Finn Faces Four Hard Contests This Week

New York, January 25.—(By the Associated Press.)—Paavo Nurmi, who ran his total of indoor world records up to twelve last night at the Brooklyn college games, has four races on his schedule this week, the most strenuous program he has undertaken since his three successive nights of racing recently at Chicago and New York.

Nurmi ran one of the greatest races of his career in breaking a record and establishing another in last night's games, but in the face of this performance he met defeat due to his generosity in giving away too great a handicap to a fellow countryman.

The "phantom Finn" will share the spotlight, however, in all of these events with Ugo Frigerio, famous Italian walker and Olympic champion, who makes his American debut Tuesday, the first night of the double-barrelled Millrose A. A. track and field carnival, at Madison Square Garden, which looms as the most important athletic event of the winter season.

Distance Is Short.
Nurmi's race, the last night of the Millrose meet, over a distance of three-quarters of a mile, promises to put the Abo antelope to one of the severest tests of his American campaign. This distance is a trifle short for Nurmi and will give his opponents, including Joe Ray, Lloyd Hahn, Leo Larrievie and Jimmy Connolly, a better chance to win than at any other mark.

The Finn, however, is so confident of his ability to triumph that he has mapped out a schedule to break the two-thirds mile record as well as that for three-quarters.

On the second night, Nurmi will compete in a mile and a half race for the Rodman Wanamaker trophy, which has been won by him in seven successive years by Joe Ray.

The third night, Nurmi will compete in a mile and a half race for the Rodman Wanamaker trophy, which has been won by him in seven successive years by Joe Ray.

It will hurt, of course, to see any of them win, but it will hurt most if Hagen does it again. There would be some consolation for the British if one of the others should come through, for they first learned the game on this side. Cruickshank is an Edinburgh product. Smith came from Carnoustie and Barnes and Walker began their golf in England.

ALUMNI OF EMORY TO MEET TONIGHT
Emory University, Ga., January 25. (Special.)—Election of officers, reports of Dr. H. W. Cox, president of Emory university, and addresses by Bishops James E. Dickey and Warren A. Canfield, the only two living past presidents of Emory college, Monday will feature the largest gathering of Atlanta Emory university alumni ever held. The annual banquet will begin at 8 o'clock and will be followed by a banquet. There are 881 members of the Atlanta Emory club.

J. W. Simmons, president of the local organization, will preside over business sessions and Dr. Steward Roberts will act as toastmaster.

"All the boys will be there," Dr. R. T. Carter, secretary, said. "Attendance will be the largest ever previous to the affair by the most liberal of the class."

Seat by Classes.
Thomas Connolly, president of the Alumni association of Emory college, said Sunday that many plans for the future conduct of the association would be discussed at the meeting. He urged all former Emory men to be at the banquet and to attend the reception preceding the "feast." Guests will be seated at class tables. That is, all members of the same class will be at the same table.

The banquet is in observance of the tenth anniversary of the founding of Emory university, and many of the three score alumni associations in all parts of the United States will hold similar banquets at the same time.

Dr. Theodore H. Jack, dean of the Emory Graduate school, will preside at a banquet of the Maccabean Alumni club. More than a score of other Georgia cities also will celebrate the occasion.

Phenomenal Growth.
A committee of Emory fraternities and other organizations, appointed to create an interest in the affair, reported fine results.

A feature of the Atlanta banquet will be the report on the phenomenal progress and growth of Emory since it was issued its charter by DeKalb county ten years ago. The student body has increased from about 200 in 1915 to 2,000, while the annual budget has increased from $100,000 in 1915 to over a million.

A silver loving cup to be awarded the class having the largest percentage of alumni members present at the banquet, according to announcement by James A. Dombrowsky, secretary of the Alumni association, and some keen competition is looked forward to.

Among prominent alumni who will be present at the Atlanta banquet are Judge John S. Canfield, president of the Emory Alumni association; Thomas W. Connolly, president of the Alumni association of Emory college; Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech; Fort E. Land, Georgia state superintendent of schools; Bishop Warren Aiken, Bishop James Edward Dickey, past presidents of Emory college; Judge J. K. Jones, Judge Warren Hill, Victor Moore, Warner Martin, Hal Hents, W. G. Bonnell, Walter T. Candler, Goodrich White, Walter S. Bryan, J. W. Roberts, A. F. Hill, Jr., Ward Wright, Hugh N. Fuller, Hugh Howell, William Johnson, Francis Rivers, Clifton

The Little Chicagoan, who also holds the world's record for the distance, will attempt to defend his honors, while the other opposition for the invader will include Leo Larrievie, Willie Goodwin, George Lermond and William Cox.

Frigerio will make his first start in a three-mile walk in which he will concede liberal handicaps to his opponents. George Goulding, famous Canadian walker and famous world champion, who is staging a comeback to meet Frigerio, is to start in another three-mile walk on Tuesday night. On Wednesday Frigerio, Goulding and Willie Plant, premier American heel-and-toe star, are to meet in a 5,000 meter event confined to these three international stars.

Other Appearances.
Nurmi and Frigerio are to make their other appearances of the week in the Millrose A. A. meet here Friday night and the Boston A. A. games Saturday night. The Finn is slated to run 4,000 yards at the Millrose games and 3,000 meters in Boston.

The Millrose and Boston A. A. events rank amongst the most important of the indoor season and their programs, with Nurmi and Frigerio as headliners, promise to witness spectacular competition. Schools, clubs and colleges from many parts of the country will be represented by the two-thirds mile event, Olympic and college champions.

The Millrose games also will mark the first indoor appearance of Jack Johnson, Olympic 200-meter champion and only American to capture a flat-racing title at Paris last summer. He will have been competing from Loren Murphree, Frank Hussey and which has been won by him in seven successive years by Joe Ray.

On the second night, Nurmi will compete in a mile and a half race for the Rodman Wanamaker trophy, which has been won by him in seven successive years by Joe Ray.

The third night, Nurmi will compete in a mile and a half race for the Rodman Wanamaker trophy, which has been won by him in seven successive years by Joe Ray.

FRANCE SEEKS CONTENDER FOR CROWN

Paris, January 25.—The French boxing federation ruled today that the winner of the lightweight fight of 12 rounds on Tuesday between Fred Broun and Paul Fritsch, which is to be staged to take the place of the Johnny Dundee-Bretton contest, automatically qualifies to meet Lucien Vinex, the French lightweight champion, in an elimination trial with a view of designating a French candidate to succeed Benvenuti, who gave up his title recently.

GIRLS TO PLAY OPENER TODAY

BY GORDON KEITH.
An interesting battle in prep circles is listed for this afternoon at the Seminary court for 3 o'clock when the Washington Seminary varsity engages the Woodberry Hall first string team in the first big game of the girls' season. The game was originally scheduled for January 17, but rain interfered and the meeting was postponed. Both teams have been using the extra time to advantage, and both are in great shape.

The Seminary team has already played one game, defeating the Hoke Smith girls Saturday, but this is the opening game for the Peachtree Circle Seminary. The two teams are systems of the Seminary girls' basketball rules, and today's battle is the first athletic match between the rival institutions in quite a while. It is too early in the season to have any idea about the game.

To Use Two Teams.
Coach Irene Thomas, of the Seminary, stated that she would play two complete teams during the game, sending in a fresh sextet when needed. The Seminary varsity squad boasts 22 players, and the two-team system was about the only way the best material could be assimilated. The two teams are of practically equal strength, and the first team has not been picked as yet. Woodberry Hall has thrown all their forces into one combination, however, and the hopes of the school rest with the opening lineup.

Most of the games in the girls' circuits are played late in the season, in February and March, and none of the teams will play a large schedule, only eight or nine games appearing on their calendars. Most of the lists are still incomplete. The only teams playing girls' rules in Atlanta now are Washington Seminary, North Avenue Presbyterian, Woodberry Hall, Commercial High and the Junior High schools. Most of the managers have arranged several attractive out-of-town games, and several strong teams will be brought here during the course of the season.

The probable lineup for this afternoon's game is as follows:

Wash. Sem. Pos. Woodberry Hall
Dallis ..... f. Ashton
McLain ..... f. Patterson
Knox ..... c. Clarke
Adair ..... c. Ross

SLAMS AND SALAMS

By Louise Dooly

THERE was a fire sale in Asheville one day recently. We had entered the Inn dining room that morning at 9:10.

"You are the first one in," said the head waiter.

"What! This beautiful morning?" we exclaimed. "We had an idea everybody would be ahead of us."

"No'm. On the gloomy mornings, everybody gets up and has breakfast early, and then looks out at the rain and grumbles about the weather. On the fine mornings, they sleep late."

If he had any more reflections to make on the peculiarities of human nature, we missed it. Because about that time our eyes happened on the morning paper's announcement of a fire sale. One of the city's exclusive shops.

The tragedy of it was that we had an unbreakable appointment which kept us busy until 10:50; and then we reported at the sale.

Apparently, we were the only women in Asheville who had been obliged to keep an earlier engagement. All those who were not inside the shop were on the outside looking in. The door was locked.

ALL ONE'S WORLD.

EVERY fifteen minutes or so a man inside would crack the door open just wide enough to let a few women out, one at a time; but it worked like a valve. It didn't let anybody in.

"Did you get any bargains?" each woman coming out would be asked, as she held her head high over her head and pushed her way toward the sidewalk.

"Only three dresses," maybe she would answer.

There would be a unanimous sigh of envy and uneasiness.

If every one of those women in there buys three, you knew every woman crowding around you was saying to herself, "What will there be left when I get in?" We reflected somewhat that ourself.

But the fact that somebody got three bargains kept everybody from getting impatient.

After a while a new batch of lucky ones would come out, and one who had acquaintances in the waiting throng, when she was asked what she got, would say sleepily—

"O there's nothing worthwhile left. Everything is picked over."

That served a useful purpose. One or two discouraged women, whose feet hurt probably, would give up the game and leave, and all the others would murmur their relief and move an inch nearer the door.

JUST A BIT PERSONAL.

I SEE Susie Jones in there. She's already got her trousseau, but she looks as if she were buying a lot more.

"There's Mrs. Montmorency Smith holding a blue gown up to her face. I hope she won't get it. She looks a lot better in her black dress."

"Mrs. de Puyser Adams is awfully smart about her clothes. I saw her go in. It will be just her luck to be able to get all her clothes for $1.00 now at a reduced price, and then they'll be new to Asheville next summer."

It was really quite a social gathering out there in the good-natured, pushing group. Everybody knew somebody else.

If you happened to be a comparative stranger, you knew a good deal about Asheville people before you got in.

At last you heard the welcome words meant for you:

"I can let ten ladies in now," and as you are propelled with little volition on your part into the happy hunting ground of bargain enthusiasts you hear the ominous words to the women still shut out—

"Sorry, ladies, but we can't admit anybody else for the next two hours. The stock must be put in order."

There is the very perceptible and stuffy odor of smoke. But you don't mind. In fact, it's part of the lure. It's a material reminder that this is a real bona-fide fire sale.

And what do you get?

Well, if you keep your head, and don't get nervous, and hold before you mentally what you can use, and don't allow yourself to be swept off your feet by the reduction on things you have absolutely no need for, then you will be a real bargain finder.

In any case, if you had not gone to the sale, think what you might have missed!

Look at the bargains your next-door neighbor, Mrs. Brown, got.

The best definition of economy we ever heard by the way was made, but the author must have been watching women when he devised it: "Economy is doing without something you do want in case you should want something you won't want."

AND, speaking of fire sales and the women—aren't they probably just the same in Atlanta as in Asheville and in Gopher's Prairie and Muncie, Ind., and all this broad country over?

GOVERNORS AND GOVERNORS.

THAT was a regular burrah time they had out in Texas the other day when they inaugurated their first woman governor.

We believe in burrah times at inaugurations.

It keeps people reminded that they have a governor.

It keeps the governor reminded that he—or she—has a constituency, to whom he—or she—is responsible.

Time was when the office of governor was universally regarded as one of great honor. (In some states it still is.) The most honorable and distinguished men in the state looked to the office as the one best suited to crown honorable public service.

The job in some sections of the country is a bit sullied these days by recent occupants who have an entirely different attitude toward it, and by the indifference of an electorate which has let down the old-time honorable bars.

One governor was removed from office not long ago, as you will remember, to take up residence in the Atlanta federal penitentiary.

Another has been so confused as to the distinction between mine and thine as to interests on state money that we, in our vast ignorance as to when a thing is a theft and when it is a technicality, can't quite understand why there are not two governors the guests of Uncle Sam on that fine, high, healthy hill just outside Atlanta, where there are so many well-known financiers in temporary residence.

Others have been discovered showing a patriotic and tender protection over our country's infant, but lusty industry—bootlegging.

And we might mention other involvements that show that the fashion in governors, while not leaning to stipes in many states, is quite a bit down at the heels.

OLD STANDARDS REVIVED.

NOW TEXAS: Well, at least it's a good sign that she realizes the necessity for doing something drastic.

We liked the idea of those three inaugural balls.

It was typically southern in the genuineness and liberality of its spirit of hospitality; and typically democratic in its effort to include all the people.

We liked Ma Ferguson's speech, too. She did not indulge in flowery bursts of eloquence. But she hit on some awfully good points.

"Team work," "a government of law, founded on the constitution," "an administration of progress in matters spiritual as well as material," "higher standards of morals and purity of life and conduct among public servants of the people," "the good will and prayers of the women," and "their full service, not so much because they are women as because they are full citizens."

Good for Ma Ferguson. Long may she wave!

And there will be extra reason for her to carry out her promises and intentions; because she has not a chance to get away with anything that everybody will not know about.

Will her work be watched? The first woman governor (for her nomination equivalent in Texas to election, preceded that of Mrs. Ross in Wyoming)? We'll say it will.

BEAUTY CHATS

By Edna K. Forbes

ARM MASSAGE.

Massage is invaluable not only in improving the shape of the arms out also the texture of the skin. In a country like ours of well heated houses, evening gowns, sleeveless negligees or ones with mere wisps of chiffon hanging from the shoulders, the arms show even though the newest styles do not give us sleeves to the wrist on daytime frocks.

You may read a lot of nonsense about arm massage, special motions of the hands to play upon special muscles, and so on. Don't pay much attention to it. If your arms are too fat you will have to diet for the arms are an index to your weight and will have too much fat if the rest of your body has too much.

If the arms are too thin, take advantage of this winter weather to take cod liver oil and to eat pork and potatoes and cream and such weight-making foods.

Rub the arms. If they're fat, rub hard, very hard, kneading the flabby flesh as though it were dough. If they're thin, rub more gently just enough to stimulate the blood and tone up the muscles as you do when you massage your face.

If they're fat, rub with white mineral oil which is very cleansing but adds no flesh to the skin. If they're thin, rub with olive or almond oil or a flesh-building cream so that the skin can take up a little bit of these fat producing oils.

Very thin arms cannot be made perfect if the body is hopelessly thin, but a little can be accomplished and the shape of the arms can be much improved by massage.

Most of the work is around the elbows. Sharp elbows will take up a great deal of the cream, very fat elbows.

Forbes in care of the 'Beauty Chats' department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

DINNER STORIES

"I can get you out of here for $100," said the lawyer to the prisoner, after he had sized up the man as one who could possibly raise that amount by pawning his watch and mortgaging his furniture.

"I don't want out," said the prisoner sadly, with a far-away look in his eye. "I'm in here for bigamy."

At one of Rossini's "Musical Evenings" a very affected lady was once asked to sing an aria from the Italian composer's opera, "Semiramide," but before agreeing to do she made all the usual excuses habitual to the affected and insincere. On being further pressed, however, she bent toward Rossini in a languishing manner.

"Oh, dear master, I am afraid!" she sighed.

"So am I," brutally answered the composer.

A character around the water front in a Kentucky town agreed to maintain a savings account, made one deposit, and there the matter rested.

The head of the bank met him one day and proceeded to take him to task.

"Now look here, Slim, you promised to put $5 in our bank every month. You haven't done so. You could easily do it."

"I s'pose I could, boss," responded the culprit easily. "Trouble with you banking german is you don't send around a man to threaten me."

Today's Cross-Word Puzzle

HOW TO SOLVE CROSS-WORD PUZZLES

The numbered squares are the starting points for words extending horizontally or vertically or both. One letter to a square. Words end at first black square encountered or border of puzzle. Pick out a word that fits a given definition and space. This gives you a clue to other words that cross it, and they in turn to still other words.

Courtesy vs. Laziness

BY JULIA HOYT.

(Copyright, 1925, in U. S. and Canada by North American Newspaper Alliance. All rights reserved.)

It is not a pleasant sensation to be alone in a taxi stalled in a snowdrift, at midnight.

In my last article I told of a case where, in my opinion, the girl was wrong in being annoyed with her host for asking her to meet him at dinner instead of calling for her. I hope I made it clear that unless the girl herself wishes to do this, the only really good excuse for a man's requesting it is that something important makes it impossible for him to call for her on time. If it is mere laziness or some self-indulgent reason, it seems to me she is justified in being annoyed.

There are undoubtedly many people today who have not the slightest feeling that they should in any way put themselves out for someone else. This was proved to me again rather forcibly in an experience I had the night of the big snowstorm in New York right after New Year's day. I dined with a friend of mine and two men, friends of hers whom I knew slightly. After dinner we played bridge, until at about 12 o'clock they decided to go somewhere to dance. I, having recently been ill, was going home. It was snowing hard and, after much difficulty, we managed to get a taxi. I took them to the cabaret where they were to have supper and was then allowed to go home, a distance of several miles, alone.

I am quite used to going around alone and, in spite of the many stories of holdups and the lurid descriptions of the bad characters of many taxi chauffeurs, am not in the least nervous. But one moment when we were nearly stuck in a snowdrift I could not help thinking that it would not be very pleasant to find myself in thin slippers and evening dress, some distance from home, at 12:30 at night, in a hard snowstorm with no one but a strange chauffeur to look out for me. And the poor man's first concern was, naturally, his car.

I suppose the two men and the girl in question would have thought me very unreasonable and selfish had I suggested that one of them could perhaps be 20 minutes late to supper, in order to take me home. Yet I had taken the long drive from Washington square to a house up in the nineties, hating to leave my nice warm house to be bumped along in the snow, merely because I did not want to break up their bridge game. Had either of the men been friends of mine I should have asked, with no hesitancy, that he take me home.

There are times when a man is forced to do something which he may feel to be discourteous and which makes him most uncomfortable to do. If the girl with him knows that his reason is a good one she cannot blame him and should understand.

For instance, if a man tells you when inviting you to the theater that he will not be able to take you home, and the reason for it, he may feel uncomfortable at letting you go home alone, but, naturally, as you agreed to go knowing it, you cannot consider him discourteous.

I do not think, however, that in the case of these two men I was hypocritical in thinking them lacking in both courtesy and consideration—one and the same thing in the final analysis.

It is estimated that if the day dreamers were placed end to end it would make no difference in the out-put.—San Francisco Chronicle.

A Metric Rule

Students in science classes, mechanical drawing, and all others who have occasion to make measurements of length in the Metric System, will want one of the Metric rules which our Washington bureau now has ready for readers of this newspaper.

This rule, printed on heavy grade paper, is one meter in length, divided into 100 centimeters and each centimeter into 10 millimeters. It is folded into vest pocket size and fitted into a protecting envelope which may be carried in the pocket. On the reverse side, is printed a brief explanation of the metric system, square measure, measures of capacity, measures for liquids, measures for weight. This rule is absolutely accurate for measurements of length down to the millimeter.

If you are interested in, or have occasion to use the Metric System, you want a copy of this rule. Fill out the coupon below and mail as directed:

Red Hair and Blue Sea

By Stanley R. Osborn.

Palmyra Tree, on board the yacht Rainbow, which is leaving the California coast for the south seas, is startled to see a sinister hand with a black lace mitt on it thrust through her port-hole window. Palmyra is loved by two men, John Thurston and Van Buren Rutger. She is not certain which she loves.

Palmyra determines to unmask the owner of that sinister hand. She discovers Ponape Burke, who confesses he is a smuggler of coconuts and permits her a glimpse of a savage brown man, Olive, hiding with him.

Palmyra gradually convinces herself she is in love with Van Buren Rutger. Burke and Olive leave the yacht at Honolulu, and Palmyra's engagement to Van Buren is announced. The yacht Rainbow is wrecked, and the party landed on an uninhabited island. Burke appears on the Pigeon of Noah, and promises to rescue them. Palmyra goes on board alone to investigate, and finds herself a prisoner. Burke sails away with her, telling her it was he who wrecked the Rainbow. Thurston and Van Buren start at dawn in a vain pursuit. Burke grows ugly at Palmyra's refusal to listen to his love making, and leaves her alone on a deserted island for a few months with barely enough food to last until he shall return for her.

In the morning she sees Olive swimming toward her. Exhausted from a long swim, he falls asleep. When he awakens he attempts sign language. Finally he communicates to her the idea that he and she are to swim away together in the limitless sea. He makes her a life preserver of coconut husks and they start their ocean journey. Burke's ship is again seen in pursuit. My clever maneuvering Olive studies it. A ship is sighted at last. It is the imperial Japanese gunboat with Thurston and Van Buren aboard and Commander Sakamoto in command. Olive's signals fail to reach it. Soon they see the Pigeon of Noah in close pursuit. Escape seems impossible, but Olive hurries to a reef with marvelous skill. They land on Olive's island at last. Palmyra is greeted by Thurston, Rutger and her parents. She breaks her engagement to Van Buren as she realizes she loves John Thurston.

While watching the ceremonies of native festival, Palmyra is lured into a native hut by an old woman who offers to sell her a dress. She is made a prisoner there. Alarmed by her absence, her parents go out to look for her. The entire settlement is aroused and Olive, Rutger and Thurston join in the search.

INSTALLMENT LV.

HAVOC.

As Thurston stood, baffled, mopping sweat from brow and neck, he stared up at the giant tree. His glance descended the trunk with its unkempt fur of parasitic plants, advanced along that buttressed root which came crawling, perhaps forty feet, to cross one of the trails just in front of him.

As his eyes reached the path he uttered an exclamation, sprang forward, stooped. There on the smooth rind was a scratch. The man's experience told him it had been made by a nailed heel.

This footway, which had seemed the least likely of the four, Thurston now followed. As he picked up the prints again, the sound of surf warned him the trail was marching toward the sea. As he went forward, riding or leading his horse, the path gradually descended into taro flats and then the tidal swamp.

The way was at places helped by coconut logs thrown down, again by stepping stones. Thurning feet had worked it into a paste. Only at the higher points did the leather shoes leave definite indication. Fortunately, though, the tide was in, the rise was, at this stage of the moon, a minimum.

Leading the floundering animal, Thurston worked through a long stretch, only to find, with firmer ground, that the footprints were missing. There had been no branching off. On each side—water. Yet the trail was gone. A few yards farther on it reappeared; three sets of prints this time; going and coming.

Could Palmyra have been with John Thurston now, she must have acknowledged and admired her lover's skill.

A careless print, angling off at the side of the trail, gave him his clue. A glance showed mud on the nearest mangrove root. The enemy, then, had left the path some distance back, crawled out across the interlocking roots, rejoined the footway where Thurston now stood. And this was the second such excursion.

Why?

John tied the horse once more, swung off over those straddling roots. Some hundred yards out, he found footprints again—shod and bare. Ahead large trees told of dry land.

Thurston advanced stealthily, rifle ready. The elevation took on an unusual form. He recognized it, to his surprise, as an artificial island; one of those ruined fortresses or tombs built by prehistoric conquerors on such islands as Kusaie and Ponape.

Could the girl be imprisoned here?

He approached with greater caution, bent aside a screening bough, suppressed an exclamation.

Opposite, there rose a twenty-foot wall of basaltic columnar blocks; hexagonal as if forged under a steam hammer, ponderous, long; brought from some such place as the Puellio on the sea front; transported, lifted by unknown means, for a purpose now only to be guessed.

But it was not at this wall that John Thurston looked.

Lying under it, in what had been either the canal by which these long stones were floated in, or a dock of the junks of the conquerors, was the schooner Lupe-a-Noa.

When Palmyra's captors hurried her into the footway, they did not long continue in the dangerous direction of the Puellio. Shortly they turned into a path that branched out among the mangroves. This path would bring them circuitously back to the sea at a point just outside the harbor entrance.

As the girl slipped and stumbled over broken coral thrown into the mud in some futile effort at improvement, she was asking herself again and again: Will Olive hear in time?

As the two men urged her along she knew she must soon confront Ponape Burke. Yet it was with a gasp that, at a turning, she saw the leaf wall move and the man's face come leering out.

Burke stood for a moment, glistening, his brow wreathed in greenery as with the victor's laurel. Then he bent aside the undergrowth and stepped into the trail.

"Well, Palmyra, tittered, 'I come back t' get my kiss.'"

Her guards now for the first time releasing her hands, the girl snatched forth her pistol and leveled it at him.

An instant he stood crestfallen. Then he summoned once more that admiring mirth. "Gad! 'A wife for any man. Fair born, I'll say, for Tanna."

He was dressed, absurdly, in the gala attire of the rainbow, even to the cane. She had not ordered, "Hands up!" but he had obeyed that formula, stood thus grinning at her. Now, however, so suddenly she could not pull the trigger, he brought the flexible stick down with whiplike cut across the back of her hand. The fingers, paralyzed, dropped the weapon.

An ugly light flashed into his eyes. "I ain't a-taking no chances this time," he explained.

As they moved forward again, Ponape Burke became informative. Had been lying low here waiting an opportunity. This village was a good sort; not like the rest of the island—so dam' pious a kanaka wasn't supposed even to smoke. And from the point a man could watch the Okayama at anchor or get away, quickly and unseen, to the hidden Lupe-a-Noa.

The one obstacle had been Olive. But they'd discovered Van's antipathy; planned to get the island out of the way through him. Graciously, Van had acted of his own accord. For this work the man Martin had been useful, being new to the beach, unknown.

As Burke's prisoner would soon have been missed, he himself had given the alarm—to "lay 'em on the right course." Hence the Puellio Rocks and the lava caves. Hence, also, the shots he had fired at John Thurston, not to wound, but to send the chase with renewed vigor inland. The man was hilarious.

"Until now," he explained, "I had t' trust t' bribing the chiefs into a tabu that'd keep the kanakas from crossing over where they might blab. But now, Olive's locked into the brig, and all hands else is huddled down for them lava caves, leaving me free of the beach. With the tide just past the flood, we'll soon have the old Pigeon clear. The Okayama can't steam a knot and that two masted ketch of the mission, the Iju Ran, can't overhaul us. Wireless maybe could tell Paris, but it can't find any craft along the line t' pick us up." He cackled delightedly. "So, y' red headed queen of the cannibals lies, we'll be laying our course again for Tanna—as per schedule."

At the sea front the native men lifted Palmyra and Ponape Burke, and waded with them through the thigh deep water to the islet. At the end of the islet farthest from shore, Ponape Burke ordered his prisoner into the last thatch. She hesitated, gave the natives one despairing glance. She hated them for their curiosity, their compliance.

She stooped, entered the house, sat upon a mat on the pebble floor, her back against one of the posts in the circle that upheld the eaves. Burke hurried away. He dispatched fifteen or twenty of the villagers to the easy task of hauling the schooner out of its hiding place before the tide could ebb further. As soon as the masts—these could not be seen by the Japanese—appeared over the low mangroves next the sea the girl would be hurried aboard in Burke's whaleboat, and the Lupe-a-Noa would away.

The man now rejoined his prisoner, began a pleading. Even in her fear and physical pain, she had realized, with wonder, what a havoc had been wrought. His elation had been fleeting. His eyes were bloodshot, his gait uncertain.

Bonds Continue Advance On New York Market

New York, January 25.—Bond prices maintained their upward trend last week but made only moderate progress. Net gains predominated in all sections of the market at the close of the week, reflecting a firm underlying demand for securities, although trading diminished in volume and advances, except in a few instances, were limited to a narrow range.

New financing, after falling to $23,000,000 in the preceding week, expanded to about $117,000,000, and probably furnished an outlet for a large portion of the week's investment buying. The most significant feature of the new business was the increase in bond offerings by oil companies. A $5,000,000 note issue, the largest single item of the week, was sold by the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company, while the Mid-Continent Petroleum corporation, successor to Cosden and company, marketed $12,500,000 in bonds.

Trading interest in foreign bonds centered again in the Mexican obligations. Net gains of one to seven points were scored by these issues on expectations that informal discussions between international bankers and the Mexican finance minister would lay a tangible basis for resumption of debt payments. The bonds reacted slightly late in the week in the absence of any definite developments.

Fears that the federal reserve bank rediscunt rate might be advanced again proved groundless and the general market situation showed little change. Bankers reported, however, that expectations of higher rates this year were causing many holders of long term bonds to switch into short term securities. Further selling of tax exempt issues also was noted. In this connection figures were published to show the "flight of capital" into this type of securities. From offerings of $400,000,000 in tax exempt bonds in 1913, before the income tax law became operative, the total was swelled last year to $1,400,000,000. The value of such issues outstanding was estimated at more than $10,000,000,000. Prospects for a readjustment of taxation, bankers believe, will reduce the volume of tax exempt offerings this year.

The latest addition to the growing list of foreign borrowers in this country is the German General Electric company, which has arranged to float a $10,000,000 20-year, seven per cent loan this week. Poland and Australia are among the foreign governments which are tentatively scheduled to do new financing here before spring. Negotiations for a bank loan of 40,000,000 pesos for the Republic of Chile, which will be used to finance railway construction. Among the industrial corporations which made placements this week, is the Union Oil company of California, which is understood to be planning a $10,000,000 offering.

New Orleans Cotton Mart Experiences Dull Trading

New Orleans, January 25.—Trading in cotton contracts during the past week has been on the whole very moderate in fact the market at times could be properly described as exceedingly dull. The lack of disposition to trade was due mainly to fear ultimately realized that the census report on earnings, issued Friday morning would show very large totals. It is probable that prices would have declined more than they did but for the supporting influence of strong stock and grain markets and continued heavy exports.

The exports for the week reached 306,301 bales and the clearances since the beginning of the season passed the five million bale line during the week, the total at the end of the week reaching 5,069,405 bales. The excess of exports this season over last has now reached a total of 1,416,309 bales. As a result of the supporting influences prices eased off but little during the forepart of the week up to and including the start on Friday when March deliveries actually traded 13 points above the close of last week.

The publication of ginning totals to January 16, aggregating 13,308,037 bales caused quite a sharp decline of 67 points on March, the bearish effect of the ginnings being accentuated by disappointingly small mill takings for the week issued by Secretary Hester, totaling only 293,000 when a total near 400,000 bales had been expected.

Most traders considered that the ginning total issued by the census bureau on Friday pointed to a final crop of fully 13,500,000 bales of line cotton or more than 300,000 bales greater than the government's final estimate of the crop issued December 8. The liquidation of the long interest which followed the publication of the ginning totals improved the technical position of the market and led to a small rally in prices on Saturday.

St. John, New Brunswick.—One and one-half million more bushels of wheat have been shipped through the port of St. John up to December 30 this year, than for the same period last year, according to figures compiled by port officials.

Standard Publishing Company Stock Issue Offered by Bankers

A syndicate headed by Charles H. Jones & Co., of New York, is today offering an issue of 40,000 shares of the class "A" 6% cumulative-participating-non-callable stock of the Standard Publishing company, of Chicago, at a price of $26 per share. This company is the largest of its kind in the country, producing in its own offices, studios and plants, through a highly efficient staff of editors, fashion experts, department store specialists, artists and advertising writers, sixteen complete copyrighted service publications that embrace every phase of retail store promotion, including aids to better and more successful advertising and selling as well as organization.

The basic idea of the business is syndication of its products, enabling clients in different localities to get exclusive franchise rights for services and publications which are of a character that they could not otherwise obtain except at a prohibitive cost. The company's clientele is composed of the leading department and retail stores in the United States and Canada.

Modes & Manners Magazine, the sixteenth publication, is produced for eight of the leading department stores of the United States, located in Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Toledo, St. Louis, Los Angeles and San Francisco. It has a national circulation among readers who are the preferred customers of these stores. National advertising to such an audience is highly profitable and the volume of lineages already secured indicates substantial earnings for the magazine division, according to the bankers.

During the seven years of operation the credit losses have been less than 1%; the number of publications has increased from one to a total of sixteen; the number of contracts in force has steadily mounted until there are over 4,000; sales have shown a substantial increase each succeeding year, and profits have mounted accordingly.

The business has for seven years at all times earned more than twice its annual dividend requirements. With the contracts now on the books and in the process of closing, the management conservatively estimates that the net earnings for the year 1925 will approximate $600,000, or over twice the dividend requirements of the outstanding class "A" stock at the completion of this financing. The business earned paid dividends in its first year of operation and its dividend record has never since been interrupted. It is the policy of the management to pay reasonable cash dividends, letting the surplus earnings accumulate to permit substantial stock dividends. As a result of this policy the business has earned and paid, in addition to the cash dividends, stock dividends averaging 38% annually for the past seven years. One thousand dollars invested in this business in 1918 has now a market value of $1,800.

The purpose of the present financ-

Crude Oil and Gasoline Take General Advances

New York, January 25.—Indisputable evidence of the strong underlying position of trade and industry were supplied last week by general advances in crude oil and gasoline prices, by the remarkable recuperative earning power of larger independent steel companies as shown in reports for the last quarter of 1924, by the establishment of a seasonable record for freight traffic and by new peak prices for grain.

Although some moderation in new buying of basic commodities was reported this week, it was offset by renewed activity in other lines, notably an increased demand for clothing, textiles, shoes and other products in anticipation of spring requirements. The trend of prices, while uneven, was mainly toward higher levels.

The most significant development, perhaps, in the week's budget of the favorable news was the widespread increase in gasoline and crude oil prices, attesting to the improved conditions in the oil industry. The second general revisita of prices within the past fortnight carried gasoline from one to three cents a gallon higher and crude oil up 15 to 35 cents a barrel.

Consumption Heavy. As evidence that the advance in raw and refined production was based on a solid foundation, it was pointed out that consumption, according to government figures, was exceeding production and stocks of both crude oil and the refined output were being heavily drawn upon. No new fields, with the possible exception of Wortham, appeared to offer promise of increased production. For the past several years a balancing of oil consumption and production invariably has been the signal for an increase in prices automatically encouraging a resumption of intensive drilling, by another price reaction. Leading oil men believe that this danger has now been averted.

A measure of the recovery in the steel industry in the closing months of 1924 was supplied by the earnings of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, which showed an increase of $1,000,000 in income over the preceding quarter.

Earnings Good. Earnings compared favorably with those for the final quarter of 1923, and the first quarter of 1924, when the industry was operating at a high rate, and enabled the company to close its year with a substantial surplus. Despite lessened activity in new buying, mill operations for the industry as a whole continued well above normal.

ing is to provide the business with the necessary capital for the profitable expansion of the magazine division, illustrative service division, printing and engraving departments and for other corporate purposes. The class "A" stock is now listed on the New York curb market, and it is the company's intention to make application in due course to list on the New York and Chicago stock exchanges.

80 per cent of capacity. A new seasonal freight traffic record was established in the week ended January 10, when almost a million cars were loaded. In previous years this volume was never attained before February or March are rarely ever until mid-summer. The first December earnings reports to appear were favorable and demonstrated the ability of the carriers further to reduce their operating expenses.

Wheat prices continued to establish new high records, the May delivery closing near the week's high level of $1.96. A new wave of buying developed on a reduction in the Canadian crop estimate and belated moves by foreign countries to meet immediate requirements. Fear was expressed in some quarters, however, that the rapid rise in grain prices might cut down European consumption. Cotton ginning figures, indicating that the government's December report had underestimated the 1924 crop caused some hesitancy in the cotton market.

GEORGIA'S INCOME TAX COLLECTIONS HEAVIER

Washington, D. C., January 25.—(Special).—Income tax collections from Georgia for the last six months of last year were $137,020.30 more than for the last six months of 1923, but a decrease in miscellaneous tax collections brought the total federal revenue for the last months of 1924 slightly below that collected in 1923, figures of the internal revenue bureau show.

Repeal of certain miscellaneous taxes, including many so-called "nuisance" taxes, effective July 1, last year, are regarded as responsible for the decrease in this form of federal tax.

Total federal tax collections in Georgia in the last half of 1924 were $7,735,431.42, compared with $8,073,460.31 for the same period in 1923. Income tax collections totaled $5,927,131.31 for the last six months of 1924, compared with $5,790,111.02 for the same months in 1923.

Miscellaneous tax collections in the last six months of 1924 aggregated $1,808,300.10, as compared with a total of $2,283,349.21 in 1923.

HARVEY HAS MISGIVING ABOUT HUGHES' STAND

Washington, January 25.—In the face of the statement of Secretary of State Hughes regarding the Paris agreement, Colonel George Harvey, former ambassador to Great Britain and now editor of the Washington Post, has misgivings.

"We frankly cannot escape misgivings as to the finality of the secretary's conclusions which imply a president to regard the transaction as a closed incident," Harvey said editorially Sunday.

"While this interpretation, boldly put forth by the secretary, of a document, the text of which he had not read, could hardly be regarded as wholly satisfying, it nevertheless served a useful purpose in notifying European governments and peoples that whatever, if any, commitment of the United States had been made by the acquiescence of the secretary of state designate was thereby annulled. It was high time."

While according to Secretary Hughes, high praise for his bold and admirable endeavor to solve the problem, accredited to his prospective successor, it is impossible to escape the conclusion that what we termed last week a predicament, strange, unprecedented and full of peril still exists.

In the next column is a cartoon by a staff artist depicting Uncle Sam tearing away from a trap labelled "European Diplomacy" which clutches the coat tail between its steel jaws.

English Historian Is Guest of Honor At Hotel Breakfast

Dr. W. T. Whitley, widely known church historian of Drowitch, England, is in Atlanta today and will be the honor guest at a breakfast this morning at the Winwood hotel. Dr. Whitley has been in Macon for the past week delivering a series of addresses at Mercer university and is now en route to Louisville, Ky., where he will speak at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. He is in the United States for a three-month tour and before returning to England he will visit a number of universities in Canada.

At the breakfast this morning, Dr. B. D. Gray, secretary of the home mission board; Dr. Arch C. Cree, secretary of the Georgia Baptist convention, and Dr. Chas. W. Daniel, pastor of the First Baptist church, will speak briefly. Dr. W. H. Major, pastor of the Capitol Avenue church, will preside.

CLOTHING IS STOLEN IN ONLY SUNDAY THEFT

Sunday was a very quiet day in the realm of burglary, or at least only one robbery was reported to city police.

Seven sheets, three practically new suits, 17 pairs of hose, two suitcases and many small articles of jewelry were reported stolen from his home to police by W. C. Kelly, of 823 Park street.

According to Kelly's statement, the burglar had to make two or possibly three trips to get all of his loot. Upon returning home, Kelly noticed a window open and, fearing that a robbery might be taking place in his home, went for adjoining neighbors who accompanied him to the house to await happenings.

Shortly after the party had surrounded the home, the burglar jumped from the open window. Upon seeing the criminal, a number of shots were fired in the direction of the thief's flight, causing him to drop a pair of the loot. He succeeded in evading the pursuers. It has not been ascertained the amount of the loss. Lieutenant of Detectives Andrews and Detective Moseley are investigating the case.

MRS. M. P. GIBSON DIES AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS

Mrs. Maude Pellet Gibson, 51, prominent Atlanta woman, died Sunday morning at a private hospital after a brief illness.

Mrs. Gibson has been a resident of Atlanta for about five years and had won the admiration of a host of friends. She was a member of the St. Marks M. E. church and had devoted much time in Christian activities. She was married to James M. Gibson, of Washington, D. C., on June 23, 1898, in Macon, Ga. He died 19 years ago. She leaves one daughter, Mrs. Frank Kountze, of this city; two brothers, J. H. and Louis Pellet, of Macon; two nieces, Mrs. Gus Wing, of Macon, and Mrs. Ralston Fallgaiter, of Savannah.

Funeral services will be held this morning at 10:30 o'clock from the chapel of Barclay & Brandon.

150 PERSONS HELD IN TORRIO SHOOTING

Chicago, Ill., January 25.—One hundred and fifteen persons were arrested over the week end here in connection with the attempted assassination of John Torrio, a beer baron and wealthy underworld character. The attempted assassination probably will prove successful.

Torrio, head of a dominant faction in the deadly beer wars of the last three years, has told authorities he can but won't identify two hired thugs who opened fire on him Saturday night as he was leaving his limousine to enter the southside apartment where he lives. Police had no chance in the crime 24 hours later.

The beer baron was hit in five places by shotgun slugs and bullets. His death is expected momentarily.

The attack on Torrio is believed to be the sequel to the murder, two months ago, of Don O'Banion, leader of a rival faction, slain in the florist shop which he kept as a blind to conducting a flourishing beer running business.

SECOND FIRE IN DAY RUINS CANADA STORE

Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, January 25.—Saskatoon suffered its second serious fire within 24 hours when early this morning the new plant of the Western Grocers, Limited, was almost demolished. No estimate has been made of the damage.

Today firemen were still searching the ruins of the Drinkle Block for the body of Mrs. Thomas Simmons, the wife of a janitor, who is believed to have perished in a fire Saturday which caused damage estimated at $500,000.

Mrs. Vern C. Divine, President of the Company, summarizes his letter to Bankers as follows:

Business: The Standard Publishing Company, and its subsidiary, The Standard Corporation, with their head offices and plant in Chicago and branch editorial offices in New York and Paris, are engaged in the business of illustrating, engraving, printing and publishing. The business was established in November, 1917, with the publication of a single syndicated illustrating and advertising service for department stores.

The organization is the largest of its kind in the country. It produces in its own offices, studios and plants, through a highly efficient staff of editors, fashion experts, department store specialists, artists and advertising writers, sixteen complete copyrighted publications that embrace practically every phase of retail store promotion, including aids to better and more successful advertising, selling and organization.

Modes & Manners Magazine, the sixteenth publication, is produced for eight of the leading department stores of the United States, located in Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Toledo, St. Louis, Los Angeles and San Francisco. It has a national circulation among readers who are the preferred customers of these stores. National advertising to such an audience is highly profitable and the volume of lineages already secured indicates substantial earnings for the Magazine Division.

The basic idea of the business is syndication of its products. By the syndicate method of production and distribution, our customers and clients in different localities get exclusive franchise rights for our Publications which are of a character that they could not otherwise obtain, because the cost of production of the same to a single merchant would be prohibitive in a great majority of cases.

Its clientele is composed of the leading department and retail stores in the United States and Canada. Credit risk is therefore reduced to the minimum. During the seven years of operation the credit losses have been less than 1%; the number of publications have increased from one to a total of sixteen; the number of contracts in force has steadily mounted until there are over 4,000; sales have shown a steady growth and profits have increased substantially.

Earnings: The business has for seven years at all times earned more than twice its annual dividend requirements. With the contracts now on the books and in the process of closing, the management conservatively estimates that the net earnings for the year 1925 will approximate $600,000, or over twice the dividend requirements of the outstanding class "A" stock at the completion of this financing.

Purpose of Issue: The purpose of the present financing is to provide the business with the necessary capital for the profitable expansion of the magazine division, illustrative service division, printing and engraving departments and for other corporate purposes.

Dividend Record: The business earned and paid dividends in its first year of operation and its dividend record has never since been interrupted. It is the policy of the management to pay reasonable cash dividends, letting the surplus earnings accumulate to permit substantial stock dividends. As a result of this policy the business has earned and paid, in addition to the cash dividends, stock dividends averaging 38% annually for the past seven years. $1,000 invested in this business in 1918 now has a market value of $4,800. It can be reasonably expected that the above outlined policy will be continued in the future.

Management: The management of the Company is in the hands of those who organized it and are responsible for its success. All officers and directors are active in the operation of the business.

Capitalization: (Upon completion of the present financing and exchange of the outstanding capital stock of The Standard Corporation for capital stock of the Standard Publishing Company)

Class "A" 6%—Cumulative—Participating Shares	Authorized	Outstanding
Par Value $25.00 each.....	400,000	171,356
Class "B" Shares (No Par Value).....	125,000	100,000

Conclusion: The business is in a most enviable position to develop its magazine division, expand its illustrated service division and enlarge its mechanical department which should make for additional substantial profits. Seven years of steady growth and constantly greater earnings have proved conclusively that the business is fundamentally sound and a permanently aggressive and profitable enterprise. The future should hold forth for the stockholders even greater returns than the past.

All legal details in connection with the issuance of this Stock have been passed upon by Messrs. Mayer, Meyer, Austrian & Platt, Chicago. The books and accounts have been audited by Messrs. A. Norman Young & Co., Certified Public Accountants, Chicago.

This Stock is now listed on the New York Curb Market. It is the Company's intention to make application in due course to list this Stock on the New York and Chicago Stock Exchanges.

THE NATIONAL CITY BANK OF NEW YORK, Trustee

Sinking Fund Sufficient to Pay or Redeem Entire Issue by Maturity

The following is summarized from a letter of Messrs. Deutsch and Mamroth, Managing Directors of the Allgemeine Elektrizitäts Gesellschaft, Copies of Which May Be Had On Application to the Undersigned:

The Company was originally incorporated in 1883 under the name of The German Edison Company, to exploit the Thomas A. Edison patents for incandescent lamps in 1887 its corporate name was changed to (Allgemeine Elektrizitäts Gesellschaft), since known the world over as the (AEG).

For many years AEG has enjoyed a cooperative relationship with the General Electric Company (America) under a contract which provides for the exchange and mutual use of patents, technical knowledge and experience. This relationship has been a source of strength to both companies.

AEG manufactures all forms of electrical apparatus from the largest turbo-generator set to a flashlight bulb. At present approximately 32% of the Company's business is done outside of Germany. Its products have achieved a world wide reputation for technical perfection and quality.

The trust agreement will provide that these debentures shall rank as to security, equally and ratably with any and all bonds, notes, or other obligations of whatever character, which may be issued subsequently thereto, except for the charge or lien in favor of the so-called (Dawes Debentures), the capital amount of which has been fixed at the equivalent of $7,732,620.

The balance sheet of the Company at September 30, 1924, (before giving effect to reduction in current indebtedness and acquisition of additional assets incident to this financing) indicates net tangible assets, after deducting all liabilities except funded debt, of more than $47,500,000 as against total funded debt then outstanding of $3,853,683. The plant machinery carried at a figure of $3,383,554 has a replacement value estimated to exceed $50,000,000. All the Company's models, patents, and tools, as well as furniture and fixtures are carried in the balance sheet at less than one dollar. Mortgage liens on the Company's properties amount to only $95,282.

During the first thirty years of its history, the Company enjoyed a practically continuous record of prosperity as indicated in the increase of its capital stock from about $1,190,000 to the equivalent of $36,890,000, in addition to which its reserves (surplus) on June 30, 1914, aggregated about $22,776,600. At present quotations the market value of the outstanding shares is in excess of $45,000,000. The Company has a long dividend record.

For the five years ended June 30, 1914, the net earnings available for dividends after deducting all interest, tax and depreciation charges averaged $5,366,885 per annum, and for the four years ended June 30, 1918, net earnings (translated in dollars at the approximate rate prevailing at the end of each year) averaged $5,307,262. In every year since 1915 the Company's operations have shown a profit. During the year ended September 30, 1924, the net earnings after deducting all interest and tax charges but before depreciation and income taxes (which are a charge against earnings after interest), amounted to $3,201,107, and the net earnings available for dividends after all charges were $1,719,143.

In 1924, AEG purchased in the American market over 60,000,000 pounds of copper and considerable quantities of zinc, silver, oil, benzene, etc.

Application Will Be Made To List These Debentures on the New York Stock Exchange

Price 93½ and Accrued Interest, To Yield 7.70%

We Offer These Debentures If, As and When Issued and Received by Us, Subject to Approval of Our Counsel. Delivery in Temporary Form Is Expected On or About February 17, 1925

Young Fired His First Shot In Herrin Saturday Night, His Widow Tells Reporters

Played Game Squarely; Husband Shot From Behind, She Declares Inquest Will Show.

Herrin, Ill., January 25.—The young widow of S. Glenn Young, totally blind as the result of assassin's bullets aimed at her husband last June, told visitors today that Young, although frequently called a gunman, fired his first shot, so far as Williamson county is concerned, when he shot at Deputy Sheriff Ora Thomas last night in defense of his own life.

Mrs. Young, who has been living in a local hotel since her return from hospital at Atlanta, Ga., and Rochester, Minn., where efforts were made to save her vision, was grief-stricken when visitors called to express condolences.

"People should begin to realize that this is not a question of racial or religious prejudice, but a question of right and wrong," Mrs. Young told reporters.

Played Game Squarely.
"What have I done that I should be blinded and widowed in this way? He played the game square in Herrin, from the very start, I know, because I was with him every hour."

"Mr. Young came to Herrin to aid in a clean-up crusade. He has been called a gunman. The first time since he came to Herrin, that he fired a shot was Saturday night when his body was already riddled with bullets. He had said to me: 'Any fool can go out and kill people, but I will clean up Williamson county without a shot.' And he stuck to his resolve until he was dying."

"Mr. Young was killed by a bullet that entered his heart from the back. Some one behind him fired that shot. Not Thomas, who had already fired twice upon him. There will be witnesses at the inquest who will testify to this fact."

Claims Husband Tricked.
"And they will testify, truthfully, that my husband was tricked into entering the Canby clear store. That someone fired a shot while he was talking in a restaurant a block and a half from the scene of his murder. He walked out to investigate, turned the corner and came to the clear store."

"There they opened fire upon him. Then he fired his first shot since he came to Herrin, at his murderer."

"Mr. Young had no religious prejudice or racial hatreds of any kind. He loved me, he loved our little 23-month-old boy, Bobby. He hated nothing but the wrong, and he always strove to uphold the right."

"He has refused countless offers of money to betray the cause for which he worked, offers of bribes that have been made in my presence."

Who Enemies Were.
"Those who knew him in Herrin loved him. His only enemies were those who refused to accept the responsibility of decent citizenship, those whose aim was to evade the laws that he upheld."

"And now they have killed my husband. But the work which he later began will must go on. It was his life. It resulted in his death. It can not have been in vain."

Carolina's Folk Players To Appear Here Tonight

The University of North Carolina, a farce comedy of old plantation life, by Lucy M. Cobb.

The Atlanta Drama league will present the players at the Atlanta Woman's club, at 8:15 o'clock tonight, following a dinner tendered the visitors by the local league and North Carolina societies of the city.

Members of the cast are: Charles Pritchett, Frances Gray, Aubrey Shackell, George Denny, Margaret Jones, William Cox, Frank Hursey and Erskine Duff. Professor Koch is director, assisted by Anne M. Majette Grant, and George Denny as manager.

Mrs. Edgar Neely was assisted in arrangements for the Carolina Players by members of the Drama league as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Smith, Mrs. Louis Mose, Mrs. J. E. Sommerfield, Mrs. J. P. Ellis, Mrs. John R. Hornady, Mrs. Marvin Perry, Mrs. W. C. Dumas, Miss Cleveland Zahner, Mrs. Sinclair Jacobs, Mrs. Herman Hyman, Jr., Mrs. McMillan, Mrs. Franklin and others.

Ted Shawn in Chief's Role With Denishawn Dancers

RUTH ST. DENIS

Ted Shawn, leading man with Ruth St. Denis in the Denishawn Dancers, will be seen as the Indian chief in the "Invocation to the Thunder Bird" Thursday night at the Auditorium, as will Miss St. Denis, who has the leading role in each of the three ballets besides doing several "divertissement" dances.

Miss Doris Humphrey, said to be one of the most beautiful professional dancers in America, will also have several individual opportunities. The musical accompaniments will be played by a special orchestra conducted by Louis Horst.

1924 AUTO PRODUCTION TUMBLES BELOW 1923
Washington, January 25.—Automobile production in the United States and Canada took a slight drop in 1924 from the high figures in 1923, according to statistics announced by the department of commerce.

During the last year 3,261,632 passenger cars and 375,896 trucks were manufactured in the two countries. Although these figures are not strictly comparable with the 1923 statistics available, as Canadian figures were not included at that time, a comparison may be drawn between the two years from the following figures:

Passenger cars . . . 3,261,632 3,202,053
Trucks . . . 375,896 402,037
During the first few months of last year, production was greater than in the same months of the previous year, but later the 1924 production decreased below the 1923 output.

Chattanooga's Opera Makes Hit Through Many Popular Ballads
Chattanooga, January 25.—The outstanding feature of this season's Chattanooga grand opera performances is the broad appeal that is made through the popular nature of the operas that have been selected.

"Elisabeth" is sung by Rose Raiser, the role of "Venus" is sung by Cyrena Van Gordon, an American who is declared to be the most beautiful woman on the opera stage. In the cast are Edouard Coentré, Forrest Lamont, Joseph Schwarz, Gladys Swarthout and many others whose popularity is established in the south.

WOMAN BADLY CUT IN IVY AUTO CRASH
Miss Myrtle Evans, of this city, suffered several cuts and bruises at 7:30 p. m. Sunday when her car, in which she was riding, was struck on the corner of Ivy and Ellis streets by another machine driven by an unidentified negro.

L. Adair, of 83 East Ellis street, who was driving the machine occupied by Miss Evans, stated that his car was struck through the negro, who "cut-down" speaker, turned short into Ellis from Ivy street.

The negro leaped from his machine and fled.

SPRING STREET HOUSE LOOTED, $30 STOLEN
Burglars Sunday morning entered the house of Melville Spindle, 403 Spring street, and escaped with a billfold containing $30 in cash.

Mr. Spindle stated that he was awakened by a noise, and when he found his window open and his trousers on the floor. The billfold had been taken from his pockets.

ONE-MAN STREET CARS PLANNED AT MACON
Macon, Ga., January 25.—(Special.)—Macon Railway & Light company has announced that it is putting on place (this) Monday, January 26, at 12:30 noon, 317, 101 Marietta street. Members take note.

OYSTER MARKET SLUMPS IN MACON; EMBARGO IS CAUSE
Macon, Ga., January 25.—(Special.)—Local oyster market is shot to pieces, according to dealers, because of the scare from the north, due to disease traced to the bi-valve.

But the brand of oysters sold here does not originate in the north, coming here from Apalachicola, Brunswick and Savannah, and all have been given the o. k. by government officials, it is claimed, hence it is declared that there is no cause for alarm here.

It has been positively declared by government officials that it is practically impossible for the Georgia oyster beds to become contaminated with beds in the eastern Atlantic coast are said to be.

FORMER MACON SLAVE DIES AT CHATTAHOOGA
Chattanooga, Tenn., January 25.—Sam O. Rice, 90, who was a former negro slave of John Henry Rice, of Macon, Ga., and who went to war with his master in the Civil war, died here today. He was at the battle of Chickamauga and captured by federal forces, but returned to Macon following the cessation of hostilities. He had been a resident of this city for six years.

Negro "Mammy," 81, Dies.
Phyllis Reeves, 81-year-old negro "mammy," died at the home of her son, C. W. Reeves, 209 West Fair street, Sunday morning. Mrs. Reeves was a resident of Sparta, Ga., and was in the city on a visit to her son at the time of her death. She is survived by three daughters, Katie, Annie, and Mary, and four sons, W. H. C. W. George W., and John S. Reeves. She leaves a large number of grandchildren.

Heavy Snow in Alaska.
Ketchikan, Alaska, January 25.—Twenty inches of snow covered the city today, the heaviest snowfall since 1910. The storm which started Friday morning, abated last night.

Japanese Colony Planning to Farm Land in Arkansas

Memphis, Tenn., January 25.—The movement to place thousands of Japanese farmers in the rich portions of Arkansas between Marion and Joyner, Ark., began to take form several days ago when two families of Japanese from California settled upon this vast acreage, and according to Dean Adams, Memphis realtor, Japanese have incorporated and propose to buy several thousand acres of land in that section and colonize with 50,000 Japanese, the Commercial Appeal says.

The negotiations relative to the Japanese colony between Marion and Joyner have been in progress for some time, two Japanese having come to Memphis early in the fall to formulate plans for the proposed colonization.

The Japanese, who will settle in Arkansas, the story says, will be from California, and railroad companies, whose lines run into Memphis, are at present trying to secure contracts for the transportation of these people from California.

The proposed colony will engage solely in farming pursuits, the pioneer families say, as the land in question is especially adapted to the growing of asparagus.

Georgia Man Shot As Rum Suspect, U. S. Probe Probable

Chattanooga, Tenn., January 25.—Federal investigation will probably follow the attempted shooting this morning of Clyde Neely, 22, special delivery messenger at the local postoffice by deputies near the Tennessee and Georgia line, his clothing having been riddled by buckshot and his mail pouches perforated. According to the mail carrier's story, he was coming to city from Wildwood, Ga., his home, on a motorcycle, when he passed a number of men at a crossroad, who shouted and waved to him. Not knowing that the officers were signaling him to stop, Neely kept on at full speed, only to receive a load of buckshot in his back, which failed to penetrate the flesh. The mail carrier then turned back and shot the men, who stated that they were officers looking for rum-runners and that they believed he was one of this class.

The officers are believed to have been from DeKalb county, Ga. It is said that they exceeded their authority in firing upon Neely, as the law does not justify shooting unless a felony has been committed.

SITUATION IS QUIET IN THE ISLE OF PINES

Havana, January 25.—The situation in the Isle of Pines, where feeling has developed between Americans and Cubans over the question of ownership of the Isle of Pines, is quiet. Major W. H. Shuman, military attaché of the American embassy here, made this report today to Ambassador Crowder. He added he believed that the visit of Dr. Ignacio de la Torre, secretary of the interior, to the Isle of Pines would serve to maintain calm.

Eastern States Plan To Spend $500,000,000 On City Water Supply

New York, January 25.—A treaty involving the expenditure of $500,000,000 in the next 100 years to insure an adequate water supply for New York city, Philadelphia and other cities in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania has been signed by the Delaware River treaty commission. It was announced here tonight, by George MacDonald, joint chairman of the commission.

Operation of the treaty also is expected to eliminate future water shortages in New Jersey and permit the regulation of the Delaware's flow, so as to prevent costly floods.

The treaty is the result of the 18 months' work on the part of the eight commissioners appointed by the governors of the three states. A report will be filed recommending its adoption by the several legislatures and by congress.

Under the treaty each state will be able to obtain about 1,000,000,000 gallons of water a day for municipal purposes, Chairman MacDonald said, and this can be made available for any cities in the states.

PLAN TO PLACE OTTO ON AUSTRIAN THRONE
Karlsbad, January 25.—The Archduke Max, brother of the late Emperor Carl of Austria, has arrived in Budapest to arrange, it is said, for young Prince Otto to assume the throne of Hungary.

Max is said to be consulting members of the monarchist party in the Hungarian capital.

Prince Otto is the eldest son of the late emperor and the Empress Zita.

Race With Death Lost by Student As Mother Dies

Macon, Ga., January 25.—C. Weston Williams, a student at the University of Sweden, arrived here tonight to find that his mother was dead.

Two weeks ago his father, Dr. Charles Bray Williams, professor of New Testament interpretation at Mercer university, cabled him to return home at once; that his mother was believed to be dying.

Since then the young man has traveled 4,000 miles on the fastest ships and the fastest trains. He arrived here tonight to receive from his father the dying message of regret from his mother, the Scandinavian-American fellowship-student-son could not arrive before her death.

The remains of the late Mrs. Williams, who died at the residence, 942 Highland avenue, were carried this (Monday) morning to Tugalo, Ga., for funeral and interment. Harry G. Poole, funeral director.
